

MILITARY FORCE REDUCED TO "CONTEMPTIBLE LITTLE ARMY" THRU INGS TO BE IMPOSED BY PEACE DICTATORS IN THE PLAN NOW PENDING

By ED. L. KEEN

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
(Copyright 1919 by the United Press.)

PARIS, March 22.—The extent to which Germany will be reduced to a contemptible little army by the pending peace treaty was fully revealed for the first time today in information obtained by the United Press from authoritative sources. The military, naval and air terms of the treaty as finally agreed upon by the Supreme War Council are, according to the best information obtainable, as follows:

Germany is to be allowed a maximum of 7 divisions of infantry and 3 of cavalry, a total of 100,000 men, of which the maximum must not exceed 4,000.

Germany employed in the war ministry of the various states must not exceed 300, while civilians employed on the war administration will be held to 10 per cent. of the schedule for 1918.

The general staff war school will be abandoned.

One military school will be permitted for each branch of the service to be used solely for training officers.

The fortified works within 50 miles of the Rhine are to be destroyed. Construction of new works in this region is forbidden. Construction of the extensive fortified works on the east and south-east frontiers is permitted.

The infantry will be allowed 84,000 rifles, 786 heavy machine guns, 1,000 light machine guns, 83 heavy caliber trench mortars, 100 light trench mortars, 168 trench guns, 84 4-inch field guns. The cavalry will be allowed 18,000 carbines, 36 heavy machine guns, 10 field guns. No heavy artillery will be permitted.

The stock of munitions will be stringently rationed. Depots where they are held must be made known to the Allies who reserve the right to limit the number of munition works.

The war materials above the required number will be surrendered to the Allies by whom it will be destroyed. Imports and exports of war materials including asphyxiating gas, armored cars, tanks, etc., are prohibited in the future.

The German fleet will be limited to 6 battleships of the Deutschland type, 6 light cruisers, 12 destroyers, 12 torpedo boats.

The navy will be limited to 15,000 men including the crew. Submarine now being constructed will be broken up on completion of the Allies.

The German submarine fleet will be surrendered. Construction of submarines for commercial purposes is forbidden.

The German fleet of officers and men of the merchant marine will be surrendered. Access to the Baltic will be controlled by the Allies.

Power wireless stations for naval, military or commercial purposes except by the Allies' consent, is prohibited.

A military aerial force will be allowed except 100 aeroplanes which will be used for destruction of mines until October 1. No aeroplanes will be permitted within 98 miles of the western and eastern frontiers or within 98 miles of the Italian and Czech-Slovak boundary. Military aviation material will be surrendered.

LEAGUE A PART OF PRESENT PLAN

By FRED S. FERGUSON

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

PARIS, March 22.—The League of Nations Commission, with President Wilson presiding, met today to consider amendments to the covenant proposed by the council during the past few days. While the pact was thus being discussed the United Press was being informed authoritatively that American senators are now seeking to separate the entire preliminary peace treaty from the League covenant. Separation of the treaty from the covenant, as called for by the United States indicate the Republican Senators are planning to do, would be impossible under the program now being followed for the drafting of the pact.

WILSON PREPARED FOR FIGHT

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

PARIS, March 22.—President Wilson is prepared to make a strong fight to compel the Senate to ratify the preliminary peace treaty, according to those close to him intimated today. These reports are that certain Senators are seeking to separate the League from the treaty.

AWARD DANZIG TO POLAND

(By United Press)

PARIS, March 22.—The Supreme War Council today definitely decided to award Danzig to Poland with a corridor running from the Polish district to the Baltic, it was learned from authoritative sources.

BOYS DIVINE TROUBLE STARTING CAMP FIRES

Incidents of the outlying districts of Clearfield are again alarmed over the danger of camp fires started by the boys of the Clearfield Boys' Camp. BURLESON DISMISSES EXECUTIVE HEADS OF THE POSTAL TELEGRAPH

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON, March 22.—Postmaster General Burleson today removed Clarence H. Mackay, president, W. W. Cook, general consul, W. S. Deegan, secretary, and the board of directors of the Mackay Company operating the Postal Telegraph and Cable system. He appointed A. F. Adams as president to succeed the management.

HOW TO HAVE YOUR DISCHARGE PUT ON PERMANENT RECORD

A great many inquiries regarding the recording of discharges have been made at our office. Our policy is not to charge any fees for the recording of said discharges but the Auditor General's department advises us that there is a State tax of fifty cents on each discharge recorded and we are compelled to collect this amount for the use of the state, therefore anyone wishing their discharge recorded will have the same done free of charge excepting the fifty cents which must be paid for the use of the state.

It is not necessary to appear in person to have discharges recorded but the same may be mailed to Ed. B. Chase, Clearfield, Pa., enclosing the fifty cents payable to the state, and postage for return of said discharges, writing return address plainly.

There is a great deal of labor and work connected with recording these discharges, as it is necessary to place on record the entire language of the discharge, and considering the fact that we have a great many discharged soldiers and sailors whose discharges are being placed in this office for recording. It takes considerable time to complete this work, we having enough discharges left for recording now to keep the entire office force busy for several days. If you do not receive your discharge within a couple of weeks after it is left for recording, you need not feel alarmed as it is absolutely necessary to take these discharges up in the order in which they arrive at our office and taken in connection with our other office work, we are possibly a couple weeks behind in recording and will be as long as these discharges are being sent to us to be placed on record.

I would also call the attention to the ruling of the department at Washington to the fact that you do not need to send your discharge into the department in order to get your back pay. The department having ruled that if you will send a certified copy of the same it will be all that is required and would offer the suggestion that those who are entitled to back pay instead of sending their discharges may make a copy of the same and send the certified copy to the proper department at Washington and there will be no danger of losing your discharge.

I also wish to say to the men who have been in the service that we invite you to send your discharge in and have it recorded as it is a pleasure for us in this way to show our gratitude to the soldiers and sailors of Clearfield county who have so nobly performed their duty in the time of their country's crisis.

Respectfully yours,
ED. B. CHASE,
Register & Recorder

ANTI-AMERICAN UPRISINGS IN THE FAR EAST

By United Press

Washington, March 22.—Firm belief of a substantial element in Japan that the United States has territorial designs in Asia precipitated anti-American demonstrations in the far East, diplomatic quarters reported today. The American Chinese policy and the recent American diplomatic predominance in the Siberian intervention, it is learned, are the points submitted by the Japanese anti-American element as proof of this country's Asiatic ambitions. Japanese diplomats concurred with the American officials in the opinion that the Siberian differences between the two countries must be blamed in a great measure on the Bolshevik uprisings.

DR. WILKINS WILL GET EARLY TRIAL

By United Press

Minneapolis, March 22.—The trial of Dr. W. K. Wilkins, charged with wife murder, will probably begin within six weeks, it was learned today. Wilkins is anxious for an early hearing. He is accused of beating his wife to death with a club at his Long Beach home, February 27, and then fabricating a story that burglars had done the crime. Wilkins, who is 64 years old, called in reporters and issued a statement denying there was "another woman" in the case as a possible motive. He said that the insinuation that an actress had something to do with it was a "criminal lie."

STATE HIGHWAY OFFICIALS HERE

Engineer Bennett, who is State Highway Superintendent for Clearfield county, with headquarters at DuBois, accompanied by J. Blake Carlson from the DuBois office, were in Clearfield yesterday in an attempt to get property owners along the line of the proposed state road improvement to sign the necessary release of damages. This is necessary before bids will be asked for on same.

AMERICAN MORTALS

FREDERICK O. GASKINS,
Corporal, Company I, 118th
Infantry.

The Distinguished Service Cross was awarded to Corp. Gaskins in recognition of distinguished gallantry resulting in his death in action near La Hale Messeres, France, October 16, 1918. When the advance of his company was held up by two machine gun nests, Corp. Gaskins led his squad, entirely on his own initiative, in the face of intense machine gun fire, against an enemy post on the right flank. Followed by his men, he rushed the position, taking it and killing two of the gun crew. He then rushed a second post alone, with his rifle, killing one of the crew. He was himself killed before he could reach the post. Corp. Gaskins' home was in Chesterfield, S. C.

Walter Wade and Clifford Hodgins, two representative citizens of Roanoke, Va., are in Clearfield at present the guests of their friends Walter J. Camper, Jesse James Lee and Jack Wise, former Roanoke residents, and Fred B. Leavy.

The visitors are both genial gentlemen and express themselves as being highly pleased with Clearfield and the Clearfield people they have met. Mr. Hodgins has just been mustered out of Uncle Sam's service and is taking a few days off before resuming his business in Roanoke. Mr. Wade is a passenger conductor and runs between Hagerstown and Roanoke.

Roanoke has been "dry" for a year now and the visitors were greatly amused at the fear of the awful truth that is scheduled to hit the county on Jan. 16th next, and advise their bibulous friends to have recourse to a real old Simon-pure "made in Virginia" invention. They call it "The Setting Hen" and in a conversation last evening concerning the all-absorbing topic Wade volunteered the following confidential information, with leave to print:—

"There's nothing to worry about," said he, as he stirred his highball at the Riverside, "because you needn't be dry unless you want to be. We've got used to this fool Prohibition business down our way. I saw printed a list of substitutes for bottled exhilaration the other day, but they left out The Setting Hen. We've found it pretty good, much simpler and less expensive than the stuff that pays an excise tax. How's it made? Well—'Take a tin kettle, drop in a handful of corn meal, oatmeal or rye meal, put in a lump of yeast and a little sugar, fill the kettle with hot water, let it simmer for a couple of hours, then stand it off to ferment for a day or two, and there you are. Three drinks of it will last you all of one day and most of the next. Total expense about 10 cents a quart. If you like an extra 'kick' put the 'Hen' through a simple distilling process and you'll have nothing to complain of and need not fear a revenue raid."

The all absorbing topic of who is going to be our next postmaster will no doubt remain a Postoffice Department secret until the favored applicant is named and the trick is turned. A Washington representative of The Progress has been endeavoring to get some information on the ratings made on the basis of the questionnaires which the several applicants filled out and sent to the Civil Service Commission and his advice to us is that the Civil Service Commission declines to give these ratings to the general public. He advises further that all the applications, together with the ratings made thereon, will be referred to the Post Office Department, whereupon inspectors will be assigned to investigate the qualifications, etc., (wonder what etc. means) of the applicants. These inspectors will in turn report their findings to the Postmaster General who is the final court. (It's a long, long trail.)

The business men of Clearfield, who are vitally interested in the selection of a new postmaster, feel that there is ample material from which the Department can select a good official if they so desire. The general feeling is that the appointment of an able man will please regardless of who he is or what his party affiliations. Clearfield wants an efficient postmaster and is a wonderful opportunity for a fortunate applicant to win the favor of the people by giving good service.

TUBERCULOSIS AMONG RETURNING SOLDIERS

Washington, March 22—An astonishingly large number of soldiers have contracted tuberculosis. Nearly 40 per cent. of the disability claims filed with the War Risk Insurance bureau show that tuberculosis has undermined the soldiers' health.

The question of what to do with these men is the biggest problem facing the Federal Board for Vocational Training at the present time.

The board has found that it is best to send these men to small towns or into the country where they may obtain employment under more favorable conditions than they would get in the city.

IN OLDEN DAYS THE BARBERS WERE NOT TONSORIAL ARTISTS

The agitation over the proposed law allowing moving picture shows to open on Sunday in Pennsylvania, is no doubt responsible for the following concerning ancient Sunday law observances printed in the Philadelphia Public Ledger yesterday:

In New Haven, Conn., the law forbids the out-of-doors band concerts that are regularly given on Sunday afternoon.

The fine for merely attending any concert that is not of sacred music is $4, but the fine, it seems, is never collected.

The modern historian is inclined to scoff at the idea that the notorious "blue laws" of Connecticut ever had tangible substance, but it is certain that in Connecticut, as in all the rest of the colonies, the observance of the Sabbath was straight-laced and hedged about with interdictions.

In 1705, when Pennsylvania's blue law was still young, men were fined twenty shillings for laboring on Sunday and half that sum for drinking in a tavern. It seems curious that the laborers were fined twice as much as the loafers and tipplers.

Penn had ordained that on "every first day of the week, called the Lord's Day, people shall abstain from their common, daily labor that they may the better dispose themselves to worship God according to their understandings" and in accordance with this edict the grand jury in 1683 indicted the master of a ship lying in the Delaware for profaning the silence of the Sabbath by firing off a gun.

It was then forbidden to use a yoke of oxen with a wain on the hold day, and firing guns and racing horses were, of course, under the ban.

Sunday legislation was stiffened after Penn's return to the colony in 1702, but the lawmakers were not unkind of the perplexing domestic problems of those who had no ice to keep meat fresh in the summer months, and therefore the statutes were careful to exempt from their sweeping prohibitions "the dressing of victuals in families, cookshops or victualing houses, or watermen landing their passengers on the first day of the week," or butchers killing and selling meat, or fishermen bringing in their catches during June, July and August.

But in 1741 it was still a grievance among the Sabbatarians that barbers were found who defied the law by "trimming" people on Sunday.

When Gifford Daily in 1780 rents of John Pemberton, a friend, the premises which Daily intends to use as a tavern, Daily "covenants and agrees and promises * * * that the house on the first day of the week shall always be kept closed from public use, that so regard and reverence may be manifested for retirement and the worship of God."

After several years, nevertheless, the inn became private property again, and the owner expressed his satisfaction in the change. This was the building known as the Old London Coffee House. It stood at Front and High (now Market) streets, and in its shelter on the sidewalks was a market for negro slaves.

Power now established by extensive owner service

The unusual power of the Nash Six now thoroughly established by extensive performance in the hands of owners, is only one of its many superior features. Its Nash Perfected Valve-In-Head Motor has proved itself especially quiet, practically vibrationless, and economical of fuel. A feature is that its valve mechanism is enclosed and self-lubricating.

MILITARY FORCE REDUCED TO "CONTEMPTIBLE LITTLE ARMY" THRU TREATY TO BE IMPOSED BY PEACE DICTATORS IN THE PLAN NOW PENDING

(Copyright 1919 by the United Press.)

PARIS, March 22.—The extent to which Germany will be rendered militarily impotent by the pending peace treaty was fully revealed for the first time today in information obtained by the United Press from authoritative sources. The military, naval and aerial terms of the treaty as finally agreed upon by the Supreme War Council are, according to the best information obtainable, as follows:

Military Germany is to be allowed a maximum of 7 divisions of infantry and 3 of cavalry, a total of 100,000 men, of which the active must not exceed 4,000.

Civilians employed in the war ministry of the various states must not exceed 500, while civilians employed on the war administration will be held to 10 per cent. of the schedule for 1913.

The general staff war school will be abandoned. Civilian staff school will be permitted for each branch of the service to be used solely for training officers.

Specialized veteran societies, touring clubs and other organizations engaging in military exercise will be prohibited.

The fortified works within 50 miles of the Rhine are to be destroyed. Construction of new works in this region is forbidden. Extension of the extensive fortified works on the east and south-east frontiers is permitted.

The infantry will be allowed 84,000 rifles, 756 heavy machine guns, 1,296 light machine guns, 63 heavy caliber trench mortars, 108 light trench mortars, 168 trench guns, 84 4-inch field guns. The cavalry will be allowed 18,000 carbines, 36 heavy machine guns, 36 field guns. No heavy artillery will be permitted.

The stock of munitions will be stringently rationed. Depots where they are held must be made known to the Allies who reserve the right to limit the number of munition works.

The war material above the required number will be surrendered to the Allies by whom it will be destroyed. Imports and exports of war material including asphyxiating gas, armored cars, tanks, etc., are prohibited in the future.

The German fleet will be limited to 6 battleships of the Deutschland type, 6 light cruisers, 12 destroyers, 12 torpedo boats. The personnel of the navy will be limited to 15,000 men including the reserve. Warships now being constructed will be broken up for scrap.

Submarines will be surrendered. Construction of submarines for commercial purposes is forbidden.

Training of officers and men of the merchant marine is prohibited. Commanding access to the Baltic will be guaranteed.

Power wireless stations for naval, military or commercial purposes except by the Allies' consent, is prohibited.

A military aerial force will be allowed except 100 aeroplanes which will be used for destruction of mines until October 1.

No aerodrome will be permitted within 98 miles of the western and eastern frontiers or within 66 miles of the Italian and Czech-Slovak boundary. Military aviation material will be surrendered.

LEAGUE A PART OF PRESENT PLAN

PARIS, March 22.—The League of Nations Commission, with President Wilson presiding, met today to consider amendments to the covenant proposed by the council during the past few days. While the pact was thus being defaced the United Press was being informed authoritatively that American senators are now asking to separate the entire preliminary peace treaty from the League covenant. Separation of the treaty from the covenant, as called for by the United States indicate the Republican Senators are planning to do, would be impossible under the program now being followed for the drafting of the pact.

WILSON PREPARED FOR FIGHT

BOYS INVITE TROUBLE STARTING CAMP FIRES

Residents of the outlying districts of Clearfield are much alarmed over the trouble which confronts them thru the lawless action of Clearfield boys in starting fires in the woods and along the roads. This week several Clearfield boys have started fires in the woods near the McPherson farm on Monticary creek and it is feared that unless the practice is stopped a serious forest fire with resultant loss to time and property will be the result. Parents should remind their boys that should these fires spread into the woods a criminal action may be the result. Pennsylvania has recently taken up the project of fire protecting and is dealing harshly with those who are careless with fire in the woods.

BURLESON DISMISSES EXECUTIVE HEADS OF THE POSTAL TELEGRAPH

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON, March 22.—Postmaster General Burleson today removed Clarence H. Mackay, president, W. W. Cook, general consul, W. S. Deegan, secretary, and the board of directors of the Mackay Company operating the Postal Telegraphs and Telegraph system. He appointed A. F. Adams as president to succeed the management.

HOW TO HAVE YOUR ANTI-AMERICAN DISCHARGE PUT ON PERMANENT RECORD UPRISINGS IN THE FAR EAST

A great many inquiries regarding the recording of discharges have been made at our office. Our policy is not to charge any fees for the recording of said discharges but the Auditor General's department advises us that there is a State tax of fifty cents on each discharge recorded and we are compelled to collect this amount for the use of the state, therefore anyone wishing their discharge recorded will have the same done free of charge excepting the fifty cents which must be paid for the use of the state.

It is not necessary to appear in person to have discharges recorded but the same may be mailed to Ed. B. Chase, Clearfield, Pa., enclosing the fifty cents, payable to the state, and postage for return of said discharges, writing return address plainly.

There is a great deal of labor and work connected with recording these discharges, as it is necessary to place on record the entire language of the discharge, and considering the fact that we have a great many discharged soldiers and sailors whose discharges are being placed in this office for recording. It takes considerable time to complete this work, we having enough discharges left for recording now to keep the entire office force busy for several days. If you do not receive your discharge within a couple of weeks after it is left for recording, you need not feel alarmed as it is absolutely necessary to take these discharges up in the order in which they arrive at our office and taken in connection with our other office work, we are possibly a couple weeks behind in recording and will be as long as these discharges are being sent to us to be placed on record.

I would also call the attention to the ruling of the department at Washington to the fact that you do not need to send your discharge into the department in order to get your back pay. The department having ruled that if you will send a certified copy of the same it will be all that is required and would offer the suggestion that those who are entitled to back pay instead of sending their discharges may make a copy of the same and send the certified copy to the proper department at Washington and there will be no danger of losing your discharge.

I also wish to say to the men who have been in the service that we invite you to send your discharge in and have it recorded as it is a pleasure for us in this way to show our gratitude to the soldiers and sailors of Clearfield county who have so nobly performed their duty in the time of their country's crisis.

Respectfully yours,
ED. B. CHASE,

RAINBOW DIVISION TO EMBARK FROM FRANCE

Washington, March 22.—Firm belief of a substantial element in Japan that the United States has territorial designs in Asia precipitated anti-American demonstrations in the far East, diplomatic quarters reported today. The American Chinese policy and the recent American diplomatic predominance in the Siberian intervention, it is learned, are the points submitted by the Japanese anti-American element as proof of this country's Asiatic ambitions. Japanese diplomats concurred with the American officials in the opinion that the Siberian differences between the two countries must be blamed in a great measure on the Bolshevik uprisings.

DR. WILKINS WILL GET EARLY TRIAL

By United Press

Minneapolis, March 22.—The trial of Dr. W. K. Wilkins, charged with wife murder, will probably begin within six weeks, it was learned today. Wilkins is anxious for an early hearing. He is accused of beating his wife to death with a club at his Long Beach home, February 27, and then fabricating a story that burglars had done the crime. Wilkins, who is 64 years old, called in reporters and issued a statement denying there was "another woman" in the case as a possible motive. He said that the insinuation that an actress had something to do with it was a "criminal lie."

STATE HIGHWAY OFFICIALS HERE

Engineer Bennett, who is State Highway Superintendent for Clearfield county, with headquarters at DuBois, accompanied by J. This is necessary before bid will be asked for same.

AMERICA'S IMMORTALS

FREDERICK O. GASKINS,
Infantry.

The Distinguished Service Cross was awarded to Corp. Gaskins in recognition of distinguished gallantry resulting in his death in action near La Haie Meneresse, France, October 16, 1918. When the advance of his company was held up by two machine gun nests, Corp. Gaskins led his squad, entirely on his own initiative, in the face of intense machine gun fire, against an enemy post on the right flank. Followed by his men, he rushed the position, taking it and killing two of the gun crew. He then rushed a second post alone, with his rifle, killing one of the crew. He was himself killed before he could reach the post. Corp. Gaskins' home was in Chesterfield, S. C.

Walter Wade and Clifford Hodgins, two representative citizens of Roanoke, Va., are in Clearfield at present the guests of their friends Walter J. Jamper, Jesse James Lee and Jack Wise, former Roanoke residents, and Fred B. Leary.

The visitors are both genial gentlemen and express themselves as being highly pleased with Clearfield and the Clearfield people they have met. Mr. Hodgins has just been mustered out of Uncle Sam's service and is taking a few days off before resuming his business in Roanoke. Mr. Wade is a passenger conductor and runs between Hagerstown and Roanoke.

Roanoke has been "dry" for a year now and the visitors were greatly amused at the fear of the awful drought that is scheduled to hit the country on Jan. 15th next, and advise their bibulous friends to have recourse to a real old Simon-pure "made in Virginia" invention. They call it "The Setting Hen" and in a conversation last evening concerning the all-absorbing topic Wade volunteered the following confidential information, with leave to print:

"There's nothing to worry about," said he, as he stirred his highball at the Riverside, "because you needn't be 'dry' unless you want to be. We've got used to this fool Prohibition business down our way. I saw printed a list of substitutes for bottled exhilaration the other day, but they left out The Setting Hen. We've found it pretty good, much simpler and less expensive than the stuff that pays an excise tax. How's it made? Well—'Take a tin kettle, drop in a handful of corn meal, oatmeal or rye meal, put in a lump of yeast and a little sugar, fill the kettle with hot water, let it simmer for a couple of hours, then stand it off to ferment for a day or two, and there you are. Three drinks of it will last you all of one day and most of the next. Total expense about 10 cents a quart. If you like an extra 'kick' put the 'Hen' through a simple distilling process and you'll have nothing to complain of and need not fear a revenue raider."

The all absorbing topic of who is going to be our next postmaster will no doubt remain a Postoffice Department secret until the favored applicant is named and the trick is turned. A Washington representative of The Progress has been endeavoring to get some information on the ratings made on the basis of the questionnaires which the several applicants filled out and sent to the Civil Service Commission and his advice to us is that the Civil Service Commission declines to give these ratings to the general public. He advises further that all the applications, together with the ratings made thereon, will be referred to the Post Office Department, whereupon inspectors will be assigned to investigate the qualifications, etc. (wonder what etc. means) of the applicants. These inspectors will in turn report their findings to the Postmaster General who is the final court. (It's a long, long trail.)

The business men of Clearfield, who are vitally interested in the selection of a new postmaster, feel that there is ample material from which the Department can select a good official if they so desire. The general feeling is that the appointment of an able man will please regardless of who he is or what his party affiliations. Clearfield needs an efficient postman and it is a wonderful opportunity for a fortunate applicant to win the favor of the people by giving good service.

UNFAIR CRITICISM
DESPECABLE METHOD

THE GOOD CITIZENS
WILL SUPPORT HIM

Another case of the wish being father to the thought is brot to the attention of the people of the county through the unwarranted condemnation of Mr. Westcott's appointment of Edgar Westcott in the editorial columns of the Clearfield county "Progress". It is not to be denied that the appointment of Mr. Westcott was not popular with everyone and neither can it be denied that no Clearfield man could have been so easily misled everybody in the county, particularly the editor of the "Progress" who has no good word for anybody except those who approach the altar of greatness through his selection and approval. His criticism of the appointment is purely political, his statement that Clearfield county is no longer believe in Mr. Saltzman is the outgrowth of his political grudge, and being political, it can in no way affect the citizens who really has the subject of good roads at heart. We like to hear a man say that he is for good roads and will work to that end but we look with suspicion at the statement that "we are for good roads—but.... etc". In the appointment there is nothing to indicate that Mr. Westcott will do other than develop and secure one hundred per cent efficiency from Mr. Westcott and any other of his appointees. Mr. Westcott reads his limitations and appreciates the big job that is before him. He is not looking for praise or commendation now but prefers to do his work well as it is laid out for him and get what credit is due him at the end of his term. That is the sane view. We all know the history of the new broom which sweeps clean under the stimulus of praise and flattery. Many times they wear out all the sooner. So far as the Highway Department is concerned Mr. Westcott has only to carry out the plans and work laid out for him. So far as the people of the county are concerned, he has a right to expect the citizenry co-operation of every citizen in carrying out these plans. Condemnation before trial is a despicable political method of showing a spike into the wheels of progress.

One paragraph is significant in the editorial. We beg your indulgence to reprint it as follows:

"If Mr. Westcott proves a success he will disappoint over ninety per cent of the people who know him best." Can it be that the editor of the "Progress" will be disappointed if good roads are a success under Mr. Westcott? It is evident that he prefers bad roads to political disappointment. Mr. Westcott probably knows that this paper did not approve of his appointment but with our disapproval we do not carry condemnation. He has our assurance that he will not be prematurely criticized or embarrassed by partisan or factional politics from our office. Good roads is too big an issue to be made the football of politics. The Republican will do well to co-operate without its "ifs, ands and buts".

WORSE CHEAT THAN A HORSE TRADE

"Hey, fellows! Come here a minute. Yes, you old fellows too."

Isn't it nice to lie down on Saturday night with the knowledge that the alarm clock need not be set for a shift the next day?

Think of that luxurious feeling when next morning the sun peeps thru the shades and by its gentle touch dispels the shadow of the sleep god, Morpheus. This somewhere between the hours of seven and nine according to your habit.

It is the one morning of the week when you breakfast with the children and enjoy their sweet companionship; the only morning when you and your good wife can take all the time you need to prepare the morning meal.

After breakfast the children are gotten ready for Sunday School or church service as the case may be. You get out your best "bib and tucker" and walk leisurely to the church of your choice where you worship the same God as the millionaire, with perhaps a better chance for salvation.

On your return to the home you hear the cheery voices of the family. The kiddoes hear the beautiful story of the Shepherd, His love for them, and bring home concrete examples of His charity. And then dinner; always something extra for dinner on Sunday. You pretend you do not pay any attention to this, but you do, you darned old hypocrite.

After dinner you rest; the rest that your body requires and which the Son of God in His wisdom and goodness has set apart in the ten commandments. You are free to walk out and breathe the fresh air to employ your hands or your mind in healthful and beneficial recreation. You have the satisfaction of knowing that your children are doing the same as you.

At the end of the day you see all refreshed in spirit, body and mind, eager to tackle the problems of the next week, thankful for the Seventh Day of which the heathens are ignorant, looking forward to the following Sabbath when once more you may enjoy the day of rest."

The above, gentlemen, is what the Philadelphia Orchestra and the moving picture millionaires would have us swap for the privilege of going to a movie on Sunday and in order that a handful of people might go to a theatre in Philadelphia to hear their orchestra. Are we going to be hoodwinked or flimflamed like this? Not if we can help it.

DID HE HAVE GASTRITIS OR CONSUMPTION?

Doctors didn't know. Anyway, Mr. Baker is well now. Feels like he did at sixteen.

"One year ago in September I was taken down; I didn't know exactly what the doctors didn't know exactly what was the matter. Some said I had catarrhal gastritis, some said consumption, and others cancer. Anyway, I was given up to die."

"A friend persuaded me to try Mils Emulsion. In 2 or 3 weeks, the soreness went out of my lungs, the aching pains vanished from between my shoulders, and I began to eat and sleep, and work a little. All the miserable loneliness feeling began to tear loose, and that heavy weight in the left side of my stomach, that hung like a huge iron ball, disappeared."

"By the time I had taken four bottles, I could eat anything, sleep like an infant, and the old time vim and nerve had come back. I felt like I did when I was sixteen."—LYMAN BAKER, Star Route, Berryville, Ark.

The old rule is, get the stomach and bowels working right, and all ailments start to leave. Strength comes back, flesh is regained, and the whole system begins to fight disease. Mils Emulsion is guaranteed, so it is nothing to try. Mils Emulsion is a pleasant, nutritive food and a corrective medicine. It restores healthy, normal blood circulation, doing away with all need of pills and physics. It promotes appetite and quickens the digestive organs in shape to assimilate food. It is a builder of flesh and strength. Mils Emulsion is strongly recommended to run-down nervous people, and it has produced amazing results in many cases of tuberculosis of the lungs. Chronic stomach trouble and constipation are promptly relieved—usually in one day. It works like magic on coughs and colds.

This is the only solid emulsion made, and so palatable that it is eaten with a spoon like ice cream. A true and useful medicine for weak, sickly children.

No matter how severe your case, you are urged to try Mils Emulsion under this guarantee: Take six bottles home with you, and if not satisfied with the results, your money will be promptly refunded. Price 60c and $1.00 per bottle. The Mils Emulsion Co., Terre Haute, Ind. Sold and guaranteed by Searns Drug Store.

LETTER FROM WILLIAM R. CAMPBELL

A letter from William Campbell to his father, Andrew Campbell of Morrisdale, conveys the interesting and welcome information that he has arrived from France and is anxiously awaiting his final discharge so he can come home. He is located at Camp Merritt but expects to be transferred to Camp Dix as soon as they get thru with the quarantine regulations. He is sticking close to camp although passes to New York are easily procurable. He says that he does not want any pass until they hand him that pass to good old Clearfield county.

RECIPE TO CLEAR A PIMPLY SKIN

Pimples are Impurities Seeking an Outlet Through Skin Pores

Pimples sores and boils usually result from toxins, poisons and impurities which are generated in the bowels and then absorbed into the blood thru the very ducts which should absorb only nourishment to sustain the body.

It is the function of the kidneys to filter impurities from the blood and cast them out in the form of urine, but in many instances the bowels create more toxins and impurities than the kidneys can eliminate, then the blood users the skin pores as the next best means of getting rid of these impurities which often break out all over the skin in the form of pimples.

The surest way to clear the skin of these eruptions, says a noted authority, is to get from a good pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of hot water each morning before breakfast for one week. This will prevent the formation of toxins in the bowels. It also stimulates the kidneys to normal action, thus causing them to filter the blood of impurities and clearing the skin of pimples.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent drink which usually makes pimples disappear, cleanses the blood and is excellent for the kidneys as well.

THE COMFORTS of the AMERICAN HOME

It is a well-known fact that, home for home, the American household has more comforts and conveniences than that of any other nation.

In foreign lands the modernized dwelling is found only in the better sections of the larger cities.

In America, even in remote rural districts, you find the piano, the vacuum cleaner, washing machines, up-to-date heating systems, telephones and numberless electrical appliances.

There is a well-kept look about residence, store or outbuildings with an atmosphere of prosperity and content.

Did you ever stop to realize why this is so; how this condition was brought about?

It is largely due to advertising. And a big share of the credit belongs to newspaper advertising.

Stop and think how many of the foods you eat, the things you wear and other articles entering into your everyday life, you first heard of through newspaper advertisements.

You will then realize what a part they do play, or should play, in your daily life.

Read the advertisements in the newspapers regularly and thoroughly, if you are not already doing so. They mean more to you than you can tell.

SPROUL SAYS PENNSYLVANIA NEARS END OF THE MUD AGE

By WM. C. SPROUL (Governor of Pennsylvania.)

Last fall I covered many miles of road in northern Cambria County in an automobile. The trip was a delightful one. The dirt roads were in splendid condition. But as we whirled along the highway I thought of conditions when winter came; and my mind glimpsed the sodden ribbon of mud that must come with the rain and snow—a mud ribbon that would choke the trade, prevent neighborly intercourse and cause tremendous monetary losses. I seemed to see injured automobiles; teams of tired horses steaming from the effort to get to market loads of produce woefully small because of road conditions. And as the Cambria County people with me in the automobile pointed out the glories of the countryside I could not help but wonder how long it would be before Pennsylvania awoke to the fact that its poor roads are a brake on the wheels of progress.

A short while afterward came the November election; and the people of Pennsylvania gave a majority of 262,000 votes to the proposition to bond the Commonwealth for $50,000,000 for road purposes. I knew then that we in Pennsylvania were nearing the end of the Mud Age. Since that time we have completed our plans for Pennsylvania's system of primary highways—planned to give the state a network of north-south and east-west thoroughfares which will connect every county and, meeting the highways of other commonwealths at our boundaries, place Pennsylvania in communication with a multitude of markets and sources of supply.

In the work of permanentizing Pennsylvania's highways we are being joined by a large number of counties. We have been promised many millions of dollars to be used in conjunction with our funds on state-aid highways, while the majority of counties in the state are also preparing to spend their own money on the construction of necessary laterals or cross roads, connecting our primary highways. The administration is particularly pleased with the willingness of county commissioners to co-operate in highway construction. And we are pleased that the people themselves look at the proposition in such a broadgauge manner and are urging their county authorities not only to spend all available money possible for better roads, but to borrow money for construction.

It seems to me that the theory that we should have the use of our improved roads while paying for them is a proper one. We buy our homes and occupy them while paying for them. We borrow money for the purpose of extending our business. We bond the state to pay for roads the use of which we have while paying the bills. A county bonds itself for road purposes—and the construction of better highways increases property values and lessens production costs.

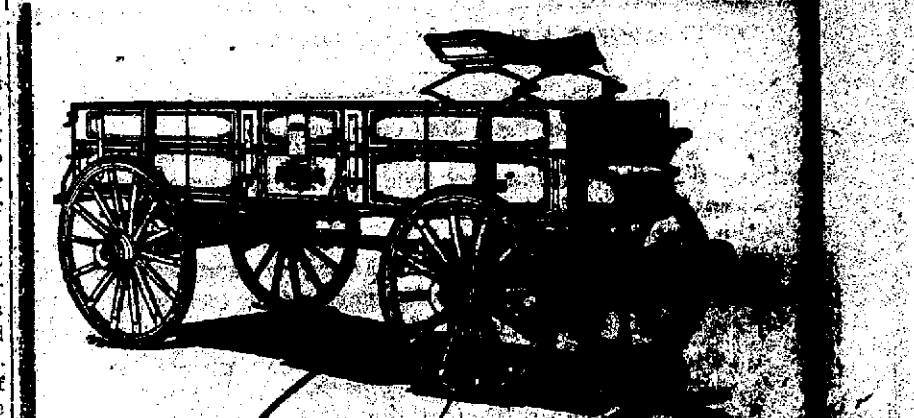

But it is important to remember that borrowing money with which to build roads which will have disappeared or are useless before the borrowed money has been repaid is an economic fallacy. When we buy a home we expect—we know!—that the house with proper care will be practically as good as ever when we have finished paying for it. Under the construction method planned by the Commonwealth the life of the roads will be much longer than the life of the bonds issued to pay the bills. It is important that construction by counties be of the same durable nature. Taxpayers are never averse to spending money when they know that the return is one hundred cents for every dollar expended. During the next four years the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania will spend approximately $100,000,000 for better roads. And we are going to have $100,000,000 worth of roads. Not only that, we are going to continue to have that $100,000,000 worth of roads for years after we have paid the bills—which is, after all, the most important thing to remember. Pennsylvania must not stop with that initial expenditure. It must continue to construct permanent highways until every hamlet and every farm is either on a improved highway or within a very short distance of one. There are 10,235 miles of road in the State's highway system—the system of roads controlled by the Commonwealth. There are approximately 90,000 miles of roads of all sorts in Pennsylvania.

The State is bearing the entire cost of constructing the primary system. It asks that each county expend on secondary routes the money that it would have spent on primary routes had not the State shouldered the burden.

The State of Pennsylvania has innumerable assets. And it is a liability which we have seen to from the state had made it pleased that Cambria county's disposition to co-operate with the work done by the Commonwealth will be proportionate to that completed by the Commonwealth.

Two Strong Columbus Features

AT the rear end of the Columbus wagon box you will find two improvements that will mean much to you in the coming years while you use the wagon.

There is the International folding end gate (patent applied for). Split end-gates are now done every way. You will see that it is easy to remove or replace and will stay in position; that it is very strong, made from heavy cross sills to prevent splitting, and by a spring steel bar.

Then there is the center link box rod. This rod is in the center and has a threaded handle nut on each side of the box. When uncoupled the rod always remains fast to the box. The new link end rod means no more lost or bent rods, and no more stripped threads. You can tighten the rod from either side. Come in and see the handiest arrangement you ever saw.

it's humiliating and prosaic to be tied
to a pair of apron strings, but what better fate could a mere man ask than
to be attached to the silken floating
strands of the gorgeous ribbon sashes
fetching females are now all wrapped
up in.

A frock without a sash these first Spring days is like a julep without mint. After June Thirtieth, of course,

we'll find that's just a mere detail, but
at present it's the details that count.
A sash is just that right piquant
detail that breaks the plain dark length
of line with a splash of color and adds
savor and flavor to a frock. Really,
a waist without a sash is not a waist
of the times, but a waste of time.

Wonderful in coloring and design
are the wide ribbons offered to sash
femininity. They are irresistible and it is no wonder Dame Fashion is all
enmeshed in their toils.

The lustre of metallic threads plays
a bright part in the warp and woof of
them and the gay Bayadere stripes of
the old Roman sashes turn most any
dark gown into a veritable Roman
holiday. Usually on dark toned satin or taffeta dresses, navy, black or taupe, the gay hues sashes tie up to
the greatest advantage but a rose
pink taffeta evening gown, worn in
"Up in Mabel's Room" is one of the most effective sash dresses of the season. The regulation draped pink taffeta skirt is tight at the feet and puffed out over the hips. The bodice,
which is too slight for honorable
mention, is joined to the skirt by the wide crush of a black background,
ribbon strewn with red and yellow
roses shot with silver. This ribbon
sash is knotted in the back and out-
long end falls and trails on the floor
in the form of a train.

sash of your childhood days, it is
much classier than the newest imitating ribbons. A lucky debutante was
the envied of all beholders the other
day, sporting a charming old sash of
her mother's youth. It was of yellow satin, chenille fringed, and embroidered
on each end with rosebuds and
forget-me-nots in chenille. She wore
it with a smoke grey Georgette dress.
Chenille fringe for the sash ends is

BACK LIKE A BOARD? IT'S YOUR KIDNEYS

There's no use suffering from the awful agony of lame back. Don't wait until it "passes off." It only comes back.
Find the cause and stop it. Deceased conditions of kidneys are usually indicated by stiff lame backs and other
wrenching pains, which are nature's
signals for help!

Here's the remedy. When you feel
the first twinges of pain or experience any of these symptoms, get busy
at once. Go to your druggist and get
MEDAL Brand Oil Capsules, imported fresh every month from the laboratories in Harlem, Holland.
Pleasant and easy to take, they instantly
break the poisonous germs clogging
your system and bring quick relief.

For over two hundred years they have been helping the sick. Why not try them? Sold everywhere by respected druggists in sealed packages.
Three sizes. Money back if they do not help you. Ask for "GOLD MEDAL" and be sure the name
"GOLD MEDAL" is on the box.

SCHOOL NOTES

SCHOOL NOTES

Thursday evening the High school
Glee club and orchestra held a party
at the High school instead of the regular rehearsal. The first on the program was a light lunch served by
the boys. This was followed by dancing and at an early hour the
members departed voting it the best
rehearsal for some time.

Mr. Andes gave out several checks
to the pupils in High School who won
prizes with war gardens last summer.

The Junior class has selected the
cast for their play "Bonnie Kate."
The play is being directed by Miss
Herbert, the history teacher.

Rumors are circulated that the girls
of the Junior class will reorganize
their basketball team. If this is true there is little hope for the girls'
team of the Y. M. C. A. Last year
in the interclass league the Juniors
"cleaned up" on the team now representing the Y. Probably with a little practice they could come back and do
it again and also take the championship which the Y. M. C. A. girls
claim.

Marble season is here. The result is that Mr. Andes has a few callers
at the office explaining that they were
sent there because of playing marbles
on the floor. They make such a nice noise.

The Glee Club will now rehearse
on Friday after school in addition to Thursday evening. They are working on a cantata which will require a good deal of practice in order to give
it by commencement time.

FINE FOR RHEUMATISM!

Musteroil Loosens Up Those
Stiff Joints—Keeps Out Pain
You'll know why thousands use Muste-roil once you experience the glad result it gives.

Get a jar of Musteroil from the nearest drug store. It is a cream, white, odorless, made with the oil of mustard. Better than a mustard plaster and does not sticker. Brings ease and comfort while rubbing rubbed on.

Musteroil is recommended by many doctors and nurses. Millions of jars are used annually for rheumatism, cramps, cold neck, asthma, neuritis, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the
back or joints, sprains, sore muscles,
bruises, chilblains, frost-bitten feet, colds of
the chest. It often prevents pneumonia.
30c and 60c jars. Hospital size $2.50.

ELIMINATION BOWLING TOURNAMENT

A cup will be given to the man who
finishes out ahead.

Rule 1. The contest shall consist of three games to be rolled when
scheduled.

Rule 2. When a man is eliminated
he shall not roll any more games.

Rule 3. The games shall be rolled
as they are matched below for the start.

Rule 4. The games are for members in good standing only.

Rule 5. The foul line shall be observed.

Rule 6. There shall be an official
scorer appointed for each match.

Following is the way they are to start the match.

- 1—Wallace, R. Roseberry
- 2—Ennis, H. Roseberry
- 3—Mohney, P. Roseberry
- 4—Leffler, Mitchell
- 5—Kreher, Swales
- 6—Wrigley, Stage
- 7—Woods, Jordan
- 8—Yeane, Pearce

particularly smart and long chenille
tassels are also effective.

Appropos of getting out your old
sashes you'd better shake the lavender
out of your old lace collars at the same rummaging.

The exquisite ivory tint of a col-
webby real old lace collar is the last
word in perfection to top off the black
satin draped gown that is the necessity of Everywoman's Spring wardrobe.
It makes no difference what shape or
kind your collar is, just so it is hand-
made of course, and a bit yellowed
with age.

A clever dressmaker who wishes to
get the best effect out of some lovely
old lace collars which thread their
most fascinating designs in the rather
stilted form of a deep sailor collar has
hit upon the happy idea of turning
the collars completely around and letting the erstwhile deep rear sailor effect drop down in front, in a quaint pibbish manner. The result is most artistic and suggests that if we are going to turn backwards for our fashions we may as well turn some of them forwards, to even things up a bit.

Lemons Whiten and Beautify the Skin! Make Cheap Lotion

The juice of two fresh lemons strained
into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white makes a
whole quart of the most remarkable lemon skin beautifier at
small jar of the ordinary cold cream.
Care should be taken to strain the
lemon juice through a fine cloth so no
lemon pulp gets in, then this lotion
will keep fresh for months. Every woman knows that lemon juice is used
to bleach and remove such blemishes
as freckles, sallowness and tan and is
the ideal skin softener, smoothen-
er and beautifier.

Just try it! Make up a quart
pint of this sweetly fragrant lemon
lotion and massage it daily into the face, neck, arms and hands. It should naturally help to whiten, soften
roses and bring out the hidden freshness and beauty of any skin. It is wonderful for rough, red hands.
Your druggist will sell three ounces
of orchard white at little cost, and
any grocer will supply the lemons.

Turquoises are thus called because
the first specimens came to Europe
by way of Turkey.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Teacher of English Bible in the Moody
Bible Institute of Chicago.)
(Copyright, 1919, by Western Newspaper Union.)

LESSON FOR MARCH 23

ISRAEL WARNED AGAINST COM- PROMISE.

(May be used with Temperance Applications.)

LESSON TEXT—Joshua 23:1-14.
GOLDEN TEXT—Evil companionships
corrupt good morals.—1 Corinthians 15:33.
ADDITIONAL MATERIAL—Numbers
23:20; Joshua 9:3-7; Judges 2:1-5; 2:14;
Colossians 3:1.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Loving and obeying
God.—Joshua 24:16-25.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Standing up for the
right.
INTERMEDIATE TOPIC—Dangerous
company.

Joshua, knowing that his life was drawing to a close, summoned the
leaders of Israel to appear before him.
He knew the tendencies which the nation was developing and the peril
which faced it as his leadership was coming to an end. His jealousy for God and for the people for whom he
was to assemble them and point out
the great dangers which confronted
them.

I. A Review of What God Had Done
(23:1-4).

1. God had fought Israel's battles
(v. 1). He gave them victory over the strong nations which inhabited Canaan.
Striking evidences of this are the capture of Jericho and victory at Gibeon when the sun stood still at Joshua's command. This victory had
been secured quickly, which indicates
that God had interposed in their behalf.

2. God by the hand of Joshua had apportioned the land among the tribes
(v. 4) for an inheritance. In chapter
24 Joshua rehearses the wonderful things God had done for the nation
extending from Abraham down
through the ages.

II. Points Out the Promises as Yet
Unfulfilled (23:5-10).

1. "He shall expel them before you"
(v. 5). The actual possession which God had given was the pledge that he would give them full possession. God's promise was the guarantee of this. In view of God's faithful performance
of all his promises there should be
no room for doubt.

2. "One man of you shall chase a thousand" (v. 10). The reason of this was because the Lord God would fight
for them. To have the Lord fight for
us is to have the assurance of victory
regardless of how few or how many.
3. The condition upon which these promises would be realized. (1) "Be very courageous" (v. 6). At all times like this it required courage to look to
God for all the nation's needs. (2)

"Keep, and do all that is written in the law of Moses" (v. 6). Fidelity to God's law was essential. Turning
aside in any particular would forfeit
their claims upon him. (3) "Keep
aloof from the Canaanites" (v. 7).
This separation was to obtain with reference to (a) marriage among them
(b) idolatrous customs. (4) Closely wholly unto God (v. 8).

III. Solemn Warnings Issued (23:
11-16).

1. Take good heed that you love God
sincerely (v. 11). Love to God is the sum total of duty toward him.

2. Refrain from intermarriage among the Canaanites (v. 12). For God's people to intermarry among the heathen
is to set in motion influences which
would issue in confusion and disaster.

3. God will make the heathen
snare, traps and scourges instead of giving victory over them (v. 13).

4. Evil things will come upon them
just as good things had been done for
them even to their destruction (v. 15).

5. The wrath of God kindled against them (v. 16).

Peace and Righteousness.

Righteousness means victory with
the help of the Spirit of God over ourselves, over our inclinations, our passions, our tempers, our whole sinful natures. There is no peace without victory in the spiritual life, and I am inclined to think that holds good between men and nations. There is no
peace until righteousness is done. The Prophet said: "They have healed also
the hurt of my people slightly, saying
Peace, Peace, when there is no peace."
There must be righteousness toward God and our fellowmen if there is to
be peace and good will on earth.

If We Suffer.

"If we suffer, we shall also reign
with him," says St. Paul. What a crown is that for this, O sufferer!
"Thy pains and sickness are all cured;
thy body shall no more burden thee
with weakness and weariness; thy aching head and heart, thy hunger and thirst, thy sleep and labor, are all
gone. Oh, what a mighty change is this which shines as the brightness of the firmament!"—Baxter.

God's Will.

The kingdom of heaven is not come
even when God's will is our law. It is come when God's will is our will.
When God's will is our law, we are
but a kind of noble slaves. When his
will is our will, we are free children.
—George MacDonald.

Washington, March 22—An aston-
ishingly large number of soldiers
have contracted tuberculosis. Nearly 40 per cent. of the disability claims
filed with the War Risk Insurance
bureau show that tuberculosis has
undermined the soldiers' health.

The question of what to do with
these men is the biggest problem facing the Federal Board for Vocational Training at the present time.

The board has found that it is best
to send these men to small towns or
into the country where they may obtain employment under more favorable conditions than they would get
in the city.

IN OLDEN DAYS THE BARBERS WERE NOT TONSorial ARTISTS

The agitation over the proposed
law allowing moving picture shows to open on Sunday in Pennsylvania, is
no doubt responsible for the following concerning ancient Sunday law
observances printed in the Philadelphia Public Ledger yesterday:

In New Haven, Conn., the law forbids the out-of-doors band concerts
that are regularly given on Sunday
afternoon.

The fine for merely attending any concert that is not of sacred music is $4, but the fine, it seems, is never collected.

The modern historian is inclined to
scoff at the idea that the notorious
"blue laws" of Connecticut ever had tangible substance, but it is certain
that in Connecticut, as in all the rest
of the colonies, the observance of the Sabbath was straight-laced and
hedged about with interdictions.

In 1705, when Pennsylvania's blue
law was still young, men were fined
twenty shillings for laboring on Sunday and half that sum for drinking
in a tavern. It seems curious that
the laborers were fined twice as much
as the loafers and tipplers.

Penn had ordained that on "every
first day of the week, called the Lord's Day, people shall abstain from
their common, daily labor that they
may the better dispose themselves to
worship God according to their understandings" and in accordance with
this edict the grand jury in 1688 indicted the master of a ship lying in
the Delaware for profaning the silence of the Sabbath by firing off a gun.

In 1703 the like fate befell four bar-
bers who committed the heinous offense of "trimming people on first
days of the week, commonly called Sunday."

It was then forbidden to use a yoke
of oxen with a wain on the hold day,
and firing guns and racing horses
were, of course, under the ban.

Sunday legislation was stiffened after Penn's return to the colony in 1702, but the lawmakers were not unmindful of the perplexing domestic problems of those who had no ice to
keep meat fresh in the summer
months, and therefore the statutes
were careful to exempt from their
sweeping prohibitions "the dressing
of victuals in families, cookshops or
retailing houses, or watermen landing their passengers on the first day
of the week," or butchers killing and
selling meat, or fishermen bringing in their catches during June, July and August.

But in 1741 it was still a grievance,
among the Sabbatarians that barbers
were found who defied the law by
"trimming" people on Sunday.

When Gifford Daily in 1780 rents
of John Pemberton, a Friend, the
premises which Daily intends to use
as a tavern, Daily "covenants and
agrees and promises * * * that the
house on the first day of the week
shall always be kept closed from public use, that so regard and reverence
may be manifested for retirement and
the worship of God."

After several years, nevertheless,
the inn became private property again,
and the owner expressed his satisfaction in the change. This was the
building known as the Old London
Coffee House. It stood at Front and High (now Market) streets, and in its
shelter on the sidewalks was a market
for negro slaves.

Power now established by extensive owner service

The unusual power of the Nash Six now thoroughly established by extensive performance in the hands of owners, is only one of its many superior features. Its Nash Perfected Valve-In-Head Motor has proved itself especially quiet, practically vibrationless, and economical of fuel.
A feature is that its valve mechanism is enclosed and self-lubricating.

LIFT OFF CORNS!

Doesn't hurt at all and costs only a few cents

Magis! Just drop a little Frezzone on that touchy corn, instantly it stops aching, then you lift the corn off with the fingers. Truly! No humbug! Try Frezzone! Your druggist sells a tiny bottle for a few cents, sufficient to rid your feet of every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and calluses, without one particle of pain, soreness or irritation. Frezzone is the discovery of a noted Cincinnati genius.

ANTIQUITY OF DECORATIVE ART

Strange Sources From Which Pigments Used by Modern Painters Are Derived.

Crude but Effective Processes Employed by the Egyptians and Greeks of Pliny's Day—Noah Prudently Waterproofed the Ark.

Whether paint was invented in answer to a need for a preservative or to meet a desire for beauty is a question fully as knotty as the ancient one about the relative time of arrival of the chicken or the egg. It was invented, though, and it serves both purposes equally; so whether it is an offspring of mother necessity or an adopted son of beauty remains forever a disputed question.

The first men, cowering under the fierce and glaring suns of the biblical countries, constructed rude huts of wood to shelter them. The perishable nature of these structures caused rapid decay, and it is probable that the occupants, seeking some artificial means of preservation, hit upon the pigments of the earth in their search. It is perhaps natural to suppose that it was the instinct of preservation that led men to the search, although the glories of the sunsets and the beauties of the rainbow may have created a desire to imitate those wonders in their own dwellings.

The earliest record of the application of a preservative to a wooden structure dates from the ark, which was, according to the Bible, "pitched within and without." The pitch was a triumph of preservation whatever it lacked as a thing of beauty.

Decoration applied to buildings first comes to light with ancient Babylon, whose walls were covered with representations of hunting scenes and of combat. These were done in red and the method followed was to paint the scene on the bricks at the time of manufacture, assuring permanence by baking. Strictly speaking, this was not painting so much as it was the earliest manifestation of our own familiar kalsomining.

The first Hebrew to mention painting is Moses. In the thirty-third chapter of the book of Numbers he instructs the Israelites, "When ye have passed over the Jordan into the land of Canaan, then shall ye drive out all the inhabitants of the land from before you and destroy all their pictures."

At later periods the Jews adopted many customs of the peoples who successively obtained power over them and in the apocryphal book of the Maccabees is found this allusion to the art of decorating, "For as the master builder of a new house must care for the whole building, but he that undertaketh to set it out and paint it, must seek out things for the adorning thereof."

Although Homer gives credit to a Greek for the discovery of paint, the allusions to it in the books of Moses, the painted mummy cases of the Egyptians and the decorated walls of Babylon and Thebes fix its origin at a period long antecedent to the Grecian era. The walls of Thebes were painted 1,900 years before the coming of Christ and 998 years before "Omer smote his bloomin' lyre."

The Greeks recognized the value of paint as a preservative and made use of something akin to it on their ships. Pliny writes of the mode of hulling war and painting ships with it, after which, he continues, "neither the sea, nor the wind, nor the sun can destroy the wood thus protected."

The Romans, being essentially a warlike people, never brought the decoration of buildings to the high plane it had reached with the Greeks. For all that the ruins of Pompeii show many structures whose mural decorations are in fair shape today. The colors used were glaring. A black background was the usual one and the combinations worked thereon red, yellow and blue.

In the early Christian era the use of mosaics for churches somewhat supplanted mural painting. Still, during the reign of Justinian the Church of Saint Sophia was built at Constantinople and its walls were adorned with paintings.

In modern times the uses of paint have come to be as numerous as its myriad shades and tints. Paint is unique in that its name has no synonym and for it there is no substitute material. Bread is the staff of life, but paint is the life of the staff. No one thinks of the exterior of a wooden building now except in terms of paint coated. Interiors, too, from painted walls and stained furniture down to the lowliest kitchen utensil, all receive their protective covering. Steel, so often associated with cement re-enforcing, is painted before it goes to give solidity to the manufactured stone. The huge girders of the skyscrapers are daubed an ugly but efficient red underneath the surface coat of black. Perhaps the best example of the value of paint on steel is found in the venerable Brooklyn bridge, on which a gang of painters is kept going continually. It is scarce possible to think of a single manufactured article which does not meet paint somewhere in the course of its construction. So has paint grown into the very marrow of our lives.

Every day 350 persons arrive in New York to make the city their permanent home.

GOOD ROAD WANTED AT GRAMPIAN

Editor Progress, Clearfield, Pa.
Grampian, March 22

Please allow me space in your widely read paper to call the attention of auto drivers to the newest and most up-to-date improvement along Route 59 between DuBois and Curwensville. This improvement is located in sight of Main street Grampian and needs but to be seen to be appreciated—nit.

It is in the shape of an automobile garage and public "rest" room, it gets the latter title from the universal condemnation of the people of our city who seem to think the owner, architect, builder and everybody else responsible for it should be arrested.

This magnificent structure belongs to Joe Fleming, chief justice of the Grampian supreme court, telegraph operator, coal operator and dealer in "two handed" buildings and other things ad libitum. The building rambles over the better part of one end of a town lot and is both fearfully and wonderfully made. It is a child of the combined "thought domes" of "Aallaround" Fleming, and Architect and Builder Jess McDonald.

The new garage has free air and running water while all that is lacking is a road to get to it, as the unfeeling citizen owning the property between the architect's dream and the artist has unfortunately erected a spite fence barrier nine feet high and auto drivers to get into the darn thing will have to loop the loop.

WILDFIRE

By ZANE GREY

Author of "The Rainbow Trail," "Riders of the Purple Sage," "The Border Legion," Etc.

Lin Sloane had tracked the untamed red stallion Wildfire from Utah up into Colorado and had captured him, but he was only the nominal owner, for Lucy Postil had won the love of this beautiful animal and had captivated the heart of the "wild-horse rider" as well. Lucy was the pride of her father's heart, having inherited his love of horses and his perfect fearlessness. One day she raced Wildfire against her father's "favorite," and won. On a later day, in another race, Wildfire saved Lucy's life against forest fire.

Like all of Zane Grey's novels, this one is straight, clean and exciting—perhaps, if possible, it is a little more thrilling than any of the others.

WHEN YOU WAKE UP DRINK GLASS OF HOT WATER

Wash the poisons and toxins from system before putting more food into stomach.

Save inside-bathing makes any one look and feel clean, sweet and refreshed.

Wash yourself on the inside before breakfast like you do on the outside. This is vastly important because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing illness, while the bowel pores do.

For every ounce of food and drink taken into the stomach, nearly an ounce of waste material must be carried out of the body. If this waste material is not eliminated day by day it quickly ferments and generates poisons, gases and toxins which are absorbed or sucked into the blood stream, through the lymph ducts, which should suck only nourishment to sustain the body.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate costs but very little at the drug store but is sufficient to make anyone an enthusiast on inside-bathing. Men and women who are accustomed to wake up with a dull, aching head or have "furred tongue, bad taste, nasty breath, yellow complexion, others who have bilious attacks, acid stomach or constipation are assured of pronounced improvement in both health and appearance shortly.

COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

Darkens Beautifully and Restores Its Natural Color and Lustre at Once

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients. A large bottle, at little cost, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" thus avoiding a lot of fuss.

While gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By "darkening" your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a comb or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time, by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and luxuriant and you appear years younger.

CLEARFIELD WINS VICTORY OVER ALTOONA HIGH

Clearfield High school ended their basket ball season with a victory over Altoona High. Score 36 to 29.

The game started with Clearfield in the lead but it was not so big as it should have been as the Altoona boys were excellent passers but were a little shy on the basket.

The outstanding features of the game was the shot made from the middle of the floor by Confer of Clearfield, and the cheering of Clearfield, meaning organized cheering.

Clearfield certainly has had a successful season and although they lost to Altoona, at Altoona, they showed them the fine points of the game here.

Following is the lineup:

Gaulin	F.	Klesius
Weaver	F.	Hoover
Dowler	C.	Crook (Roberts)
Roesner	G.	McNeils (Capt.)
Confer	G.	Sutch

Goals, Clearfield, Gaulin 4, Weaver 6, Dowler 3, Confer 1. Altoona, Klesius 4, Hoover 3, Roberts 1, McNeils 2.

Fouls, Clearfield 8 out of 15. Altoona 9 out of 17.

MRS. HARRY JACOBSON DIES

Mrs. Harry Jacobson, of Cherry street, died at the Clearfield hospital at 4 o'clock this morning after an illness of about two weeks, in the 43d year of her age.

Mrs. Jacobson had been a resident of Clearfield for more than twenty years and possessed a wide circle of admiring friends. She was indeed the loving wife and affectionate mother, whose every thought was of her home and loved ones. Just one short year ago her eldest son died in New York and this blow really broke the fond mother's heart, as she had never been herself since that time.

Her sorrowing family have the heartfelt sympathy of their host of friends in this community in this unexpected and heart crushing bereavement.

Mrs. Jacobson leaves to mourn their great loss her husband Harry Jacobson, one daughter, Miss Helen, a student at Anna Normal, and one son, Edward. She is also survived by one brother and two sisters, viz: M. Harrison, of Roanoke, Va.; Mrs. E. M. Luria, of Lock Haven and Mrs. Louis Shapiro, of Clearfield.

Her remains will be taken to Lock Haven on the Pennsylvania train leaving Clearfield tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Funeral services will be held and interment made at Lock Haven.

BOLSHEVIKI HAS MEMBERS IN FRENCH ARMY

By United Press
Paris, March 25—Reports were received here today that two French regiments in Odessa had mutinied when they were ordered to attack the Bolsheviki. French troops were said to have sent a delegation to headquarters declaring they were ready to fight for France but not to fight their brothers. Reminded that this was mutiny and the penalty death the soldiers said they recognized this but that their decision could not be altered. No executions were reported.

MRS. SARAH J. BOYER DEAD

Mrs. Sarah J. Boyer, relict of the late Dr. T. J. Boyer, died at the home of her daughter Mrs. S. E. Reutter at 2 o'clock this morning after a long illness of the frailties incident to old age.

Mrs. Boyer was one of Clearfield's oldest citizens and is survived by her daughter, already mentioned and one son Lewis C. Boyer.

The funeral will be held from her late home Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock, Rev. W. W. Hartman, officiating.

Proper obituary later.

(Copyright 1919 by the United Press.)

PARIS, March 22.—The extent to which Germany will be reduced to a contemptible little army by the pending peace treaty was fully revealed for the first time today in information obtained by the United Press from authoritative sources. The military, naval and air terms of the treaty as finally agreed upon by the Supreme War Council are, according to the best information obtainable, as follows:

Germany is to be allowed a maximum of 7 divisions of infantry and 3 of cavalry, a total of 100,000 men, of which the maximum must not exceed 4,000.

Germany employed in the war ministry of the various states must not exceed 300, while civilians employed on the war administration will be held to 10 per cent. of the schedule for 1913.

The general staff war school will be abandoned.

One military school will be permitted for each branch of the service to be used solely for training officers.

Specialized military societies, touring clubs and other organizations engaged in military exercises will be prohibited.

The fortified works within 50 miles of the Rhine are to be destroyed. Construction of new works in this region is forbidden. Construction of the extensive fortified works on the east and south-east frontiers is permitted.

The infantry will be allowed 84,000 rifles, 786 heavy machine guns, 1,000 light machine guns, 83 heavy caliber trench mortars, 100 light trench mortars, 168 trench guns, 84 4-inch field guns. The cavalry will be allowed 18,000 carbines, 36 heavy machine guns, 10 field guns. No heavy artillery will be permitted.

The number of armaments will be stringently rationed. Depots where they are held must be made known to the Allies who reserve the right to limit the number of munition works.

The war material above the required number will be surrendered to the Allies by whom it will be destroyed. Imports and exports of war material including asphyxiating gas, armored cars, tanks, etc., are prohibited in the future.

The German fleet will be limited to 6 battleships of the Deutschland type, 6 light cruisers, 12 destroyers, 12 torpedo boats.

The number of the navy will be limited to 15,000 men including the crew. Submarines now being constructed will be broken up by the Allies.

The German submarine fleet will be surrendered. Construction of submarines for commercial purposes is forbidden.

The German fleet of officers and men of the merchant marine will be surrendered. Access to the Baltic will be controlled by the Allies.

Power wireless stations for naval, military or commercial purposes except by the Allies' consent, is prohibited.

A military aerial force will be allowed except 100 aeroplanes which will be used for destruction of mines until October 1. No aeroplanes will be permitted within 98 miles of the western and eastern frontiers or within 98 miles of the Italian and Czech-Slovak boundary. Military aviation material will be surrendered.

LEAGUE A PART OF PRESENT PLAN

By FRED S. FERGUSON

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

PARIS, March 22.—The League of Nations Commission, with President Wilson presiding, met today to consider amendments to the covenant proposed by the council during the past few days. While the pact was thus being discussed the United Press was being informed authoritatively that American senators are now seeking to separate the entire preliminary peace treaty from the League covenant. Separation of the treaty from the covenant, as called for by the United States indicate the Republican Senators are planning to do, would be impossible under the program now being followed for the drafting of the pact.

WILSON PREPARED FOR FIGHT

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

PARIS, March 22.—President Wilson is prepared to make a strong fight to compel the Senate to ratify the preliminary peace treaty, according to those close to him intimated today. These reports are that certain Senators are seeking to separate the League from the treaty.

AWARD DANZIG TO POLAND

(By United Press)

PARIS, March 22.—The Supreme War Council today definitely decided to award Danzig to Poland with a corridor running from the Polish district to the Baltic, it was learned from authoritative sources.

BOYS DIVINE TROUBLE STARTING CAMP FIRES

Incidents of the outlying districts of Clearfield are again alarmed over the boys' divine trouble which has been spreading from the Clearfield boys' camp in the woods and along the banks. This week several Clearfield boys have started fires in the woods near the McPherson farm on McPherson creek and it is feared that unless the practice is stopped a serious forest fire with resultant loss to the property will be the result. Parents should remind their boys that these fires spread into the woods a criminal action may be the result. Pennsylvania has recently taken up the project of fire protecting and is dealing harshly with those who are careless with fire in the woods.

The Epworth League of Trinity church is preparing an hour of promising interest at their 8:30 service tomorrow evening. The leader and persons in charge usually succeed in entertaining those that attend.

BURLESON DISMISSES EXECUTIVE HEADS OF THE POSTAL TELEGRAPH

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON, March 22.—Postmaster General Burleson today removed Clarence H. Mackay, president, W. W. Cook, general consul, W. S. Deegan, secretary, and the board of directors of the Mackay Company operating the Postal Telegraphs and Telegraph system. He appointed A. F. Adams as president to succeed the management.

HOW TO HAVE YOUR DISCHARGE PUT ON PERMANENT RECORD

A great many inquiries regarding the recording of discharges have been made at our office. Our policy is not to charge any fees for the recording of said discharges but the Auditor General's department advises us that there is a State tax of fifty cents on each discharge recorded and we are compelled to collect this amount for the use of the state, therefore anyone wishing their discharge recorded will have the same done free of charge excepting the fifty cents which must be paid for the use of the state.

It is not necessary to appear in person to have discharges recorded but the same may be mailed to Ed. B. Chase, Clearfield, Pa., enclosing the fifty cents payable to the state, and postage for return of said discharges, writing return address plainly.

There is a great deal of labor and work connected with recording these discharges, as it is necessary to place on record the entire language of the discharge, and considering the fact that we have a great many discharged soldiers and sailors whose discharges are being placed in this office for recording. It takes considerable time to complete this work, we having enough discharges left for recording now to keep the entire office force busy for several days. If you do not receive your discharge within a couple of weeks after it is left for recording, you need not feel alarmed as it is absolutely necessary to take these discharges up in the order in which they arrive at our office and taken in connection with our other office work, we are possibly a couple weeks behind in recording and will be as long as these discharges are being sent to us to be placed on record.

I would also call the attention to the ruling of the department at Washington to the fact that you do not need to send your discharge into the department in order to get your back pay. The department having ruled that if you will send a certified copy of the same it will be all that is required and would offer the suggestion that those who are entitled to back pay instead of sending their discharges may make a copy of the same and send the certified copy to the proper department at Washington and there will be no danger of losing your discharge.

I also wish to say to the men who have been in the service that we invite you to send your discharge in and have it recorded as it is a pleasure for us in this way to show our gratitude to the soldiers and sailors of Clearfield county who have so nobly performed their duty in the time of their country's crisis.

Respectfully yours,
ED. B. CHASE,
Register & Recorder

By United Press

Washington, March 22.—Firm belief of a substantial element in Japan that the United States has territorial designs in Asia precipitated anti-American demonstrations in the far East, diplomatic quarters reported today. The American Chinese policy and the recent American diplomatic predominance in the Siberian intervention, it is learned, are the points submitted by the Japanese anti-American element as proof of this country's Asiatic ambitions. Japanese diplomats concurred with the American officials in the opinion that the Siberian differences between the two countries must be blamed in a great measure on the Bolshevik uprisings.

DR. WILKINS WILL GET EARLY TRIAL

By United Press

Minneapolis, March 22.—The trial of Dr. W. K. Wilkins, charged with wife murder, will probably begin within six weeks, it was learned today. Wilkins is anxious for an early hearing. He is accused of beating his wife to death with a club at his Long Beach home, February 27, and then fabricating a story that burglars had done the crime. Wilkins, who is 64 years old, called in reporters and issued a statement denying there was "another woman" in the case as a possible motive. He said that the insinuation that an actress had something to do with it was a "criminal lie."

STATE HIGHWAY OFFICIALS HERE

Engineer Bennett, who is State Highway Superintendent for Clearfield county, with headquarters at DuBois, accompanied by J. Blake Carlson from the DuBois office, were in Clearfield yesterday in an attempt to get property owners along the line of the proposed state road improvement to sign the necessary release of damages. This is necessary before bids will be asked for on same.

AMERICAN MORTALS

FREDERICK O. GASKINS,
Corporal, Company I, 118th
Infantry.

The Distinguished Service Cross was awarded to Corp. Gaskins in recognition of distinguished gallantry resulting in his death in action near La Hale Mezeresse, France, October 16, 1918. When the advance of his company was held up by two machine gun nests, Corp. Gaskins led his squad, entirely on his own initiative, in the face of intense machine gun fire, against an enemy post on the right flank. Followed by his men, he rushed the position, taking it and killing two of the gun crew. He then rushed a second post alone, with his rifle, killing one of the crew. He was himself killed before he could reach the post. Corp. Gaskins' home was in Chesterfield, S. C.

Walter Wade and Clifford Hodgins, two representative citizens of Roanoke, Va., are in Clearfield at present the guests of their friends Walter J. Camper, Jesse James Lee and Jack Wise, former Roanoke residents, and Fred B. Leavy.

The visitors are both genial gentlemen and express themselves as being highly pleased with Clearfield and the Clearfield people they have met. Mr. Hodgins has just been mustered out of Uncle Sam's service and is taking a few days off before resuming his business in Roanoke. Mr. Wade is a passenger conductor and runs between Hagerstown and Roanoke.

Roanoke has been "dry" for a year now and the visitors were greatly amused at the fear of the awful truth that is scheduled to hit the county on Jan. 16th next, and advise their bibulous friends to have recourse to a real old Simon-pure "made in Virginia" invention. They call it "The Setting Hen" and in a conversation last evening concerning the all-absorbing topic Wade volunteered the following confidential information, with leave to print:—

"There's nothing to worry about," said he, as he stirred his highball at the Riverside, "because you needn't be dry unless you want to be. We've got used to this fool Prohibition business down our way. I saw printed a list of substitutes for bottled exhilaration the other day, but they left out The Setting Hen. We've found it pretty good, much simpler and less expensive than the stuff that pays an excise tax. How's it made? Well—'Take a tin kettle, drop in a handful of corn meal, oatmeal or rye meal, put in a lump of yeast and a little sugar, fill the kettle with hot water, let it simmer for a couple of hours, then stand it off to ferment for a day or two, and there you are. Three drinks of it will last you all of one day and most of the next. Total expense about 10 cents a quart. If you like an extra kick put the 'Hen' through a simple distilling process and you'll have nothing to complain of and need not fear a revenue raid.'

The all absorbing topic of who is going to be our next postmaster will no doubt remain a Postoffice Department secret until the favored applicant is named and the trick is turned. A Washington representative of The Progress has been endeavoring to get some information on the ratings made on the basis of the questionnaires which the several applicants filled out and sent to the Civil Service Commission and his advice to us is that the Civil Service Commission declines to give these ratings to the general public. He advises further that all the applications, together with the ratings made thereon, will be referred to the Post Office Department, whereupon inspectors will be assigned to investigate the qualifications, etc., (wonder what etc. means) of the applicants. These inspectors will in turn report their findings to the Postmaster General who is the final court. (It's a long, long trail.)

The business men of Clearfield, who are vitally interested in the selection of a new postmaster, feel that there is ample material from which the Department can select a good official if they so desire. The general feeling is that the appointment of an able man will please regardless of who he is or what his party affiliations. Clearfield wants an efficient postmaster and it is a wonderful opportunity for fortunate applicant to win the favor of the people by giving good service.

GET THE WORTH OF YOUR MONEY

A good live want ad column in a newspaper is a benefit to its readers and that column should be read by every subscriber every evening. You will be surprised at the wide range of usefulness of the column. Every day it is performing its wonderful service in finding lost articles, finding owners of found articles, bringing the seller and the buyer together and making life a pleasure to the man who wants some little article and is able to find it through the want ad medium. How the want ad column by all means try it, out some time. It is not a matter of little help in the pathway of life. It costs only a quarter for a day, forty cents for two days, fifty-five for three days or a dollar for a whole week.

TUBERCULOSIS AMONG RETURNING SOLDIERS

Washington, March 22—An astonishingly large number of soldiers have contracted tuberculosis. Nearly 40 per cent. of the disability claims filed with the War Risk Insurance bureau show that tuberculosis has undermined the soldiers' health.

The question of what to do with these men is the biggest problem facing the Federal Board for Vocational Training at the present time.

The board has found that it is best to send these men to small towns or into the country where they may obtain employment under more favorable conditions than they would get in the city.

There will be a meeting of the Maintenance of Way Men and Railway Shop Laborers at the Elk Hose Hall tonight, March 22 at 8 p. m.

This will be a very important meeting as there is important business to transact. Also election of officers. Everyone in these departments please be present.

IN OLDEN DAYS THE BARBERS WERE NOT TONSORIAL ARTISTS

The agitation over the proposed law allowing moving picture shows to open on Sunday in Pennsylvania, is no doubt responsible for the following concerning ancient Sunday law observances printed in the Philadelphia Public Ledger yesterday:

In New Haven, Conn., the law forbids the out-of-doors band concerts that are regularly given on Sunday afternoon.

The fine for merely attending any concert that is not of sacred music is $4, but the fine, it seems, is never collected.

The modern historian is inclined to scoff at the idea that the notorious "blue laws" of Connecticut ever had tangible substance, but it is certain that in Connecticut, as in all the rest of the colonies, the observance of the Sabbath was straight-laced and hedged about with interdictions.

In 1705, when Pennsylvania's blue law was still young, men were fined twenty shillings for laboring on Sunday and half that sum for drinking in a tavern. It seems curious that the laborers were fined twice as much as the loafers and tipplers.

Penn had ordained that on "every first day of the week, called the Lord's Day, people shall abstain from their common, daily labor that they may the better dispose themselves to worship God according to their understandings" and in accordance with this edict the grand jury in 1683 indicted the master of a ship lying in the Delaware for profaning the silence of the Sabbath by firing off a gun.

In 1703 the like fate befell four barbers who committed the heinous offense of "trimming people on first days of the week, commonly called Sunday."

It was then forbidden to use a yoke of oxen with a wain on the hold day, and firing guns and racing horses were, of course, under the ban.

Sunday legislation was stiffened after Penn's return to the colony in 1702, but the lawmakers were not unkind of the perplexing domestic problems of those who had no ice to keep meat fresh in the summer months, and therefore the statutes were careful to exempt from their sweeping prohibitions "the dressing of victuals in families, cookshops or victualing houses, or watermen landing their passengers on the first day of the week," or butchers killing and selling meat, or fishermen bringing in their catches during June, July and August.

But in 1741 it was still a grievance among the Sabbatarians that barbers were found who defied the law by "trimming" people on Sunday.

When Gifford Daily in 1780 rents of John Pemberton, a friend, the premises which Daily intends to use as a tavern, Daily "covenants and agrees and promises * * * that the house on the first day of the week shall always be kept closed from public use, that so regard and reverence may be manifested for retirement and the worship of God."

After several years, nevertheless, the inn became private property again, and the owner expressed his satisfaction in the change. This was the building known as the Old London Coffee House. It stood at Front and High (now Market) streets, and in its shelter on the sidewalks was a market for negro slaves.

MILITARY FORCE REDUCED TO "CONTEMPTIBLE LITTLE ARMY" THRU TREATY TO BE IMPOSED BY PEACE DICTATORS IN THE PLAN NOW PENDING

(Copyright 1919 by the United Press.)

PARIS, March 22.—The extent to which Germany will be rendered militarily impotent by the pending peace treaty was fully revealed for the first time today in information obtained by the United Press from authoritative sources. The military, naval and aerial terms of the treaty as finally agreed upon by the Supreme War Council are, according to the best information obtainable, as follows:

Military Germany is to be allowed a maximum of 7 divisions of infantry and 3 of cavalry, a total of 100,000 men, of which the active must not exceed 4,000.

Civilians employed in the war ministry of the various states must not exceed 500, while civilians employed on the war administration will be held to 10 per cent. of the schedule for 1913.

The general staff war school will be abandoned. Civilian staff school will be permitted for each branch of the service to be used solely for training officers.

Specialized veteran societies, touring clubs and other organizations engaging in military exercise will be prohibited.

The fortified works within 50 miles of the Rhine are to be destroyed. Construction of new works in this region is forbidden. Extension of the extensive fortified works on the east and south-east frontiers is permitted.

The infantry will be allowed 84,000 rifles, 756 heavy machine guns, 1,296 light machine guns, 63 heavy caliber trench mortars, 108 light trench mortars, 168 trench guns, 84 4-inch field guns. The cavalry will be allowed 18,000 carbines, 36 heavy machine guns, 36 field guns. No heavy artillery will be permitted.

The stock of munitions will be stringently rationed. Depots where they are held must be made known to the Allies who reserve the right to limit the number of munition works.

The war material above the required number will be surrendered to the Allies by whom it will be destroyed. Imports and exports of war material including asphyxiating gas, armored cars, tanks, etc., are prohibited in the future.

The German fleet will be limited to 6 battleships of the Deutschland type, 6 light cruisers, 12 destroyers, 12 torpedo boats. The personnel of the navy will be limited to 15,000 men including the reserve. Warships now being constructed will be broken up for scrap.

Submarines will be surrendered. Construction of submarines for commercial purposes is forbidden.

Training of officers and men of the merchant marine is prohibited. Commanding access to the Baltic will be guaranteed.

Power wireless stations for naval, military or commercial purposes except by the Allies' consent, is prohibited.

A military aerial force will be allowed except 100 aeroplanes which will be used for destruction of mines until October 1.

No aerodromes will be permitted within 98 miles of the western and eastern frontiers or within 66 miles of the Italian and Czech-Slovak boundary. Military aviation material will be surrendered.

LEAGUE A PART OF PRESENT PLAN

By FRED S. FERGUSON
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

PARIS, March 22.—The League of Nations Commission, with President Wilson presiding, met today to consider amendments to the covenant proposed by the council during the past few days. While the pact was thus being defaced the United Press was being informed authoritatively that American senators are now asking to separate the entire preliminary peace treaty from the League covenant. Separation of the treaty from the covenant, as called for by the United States indicate the Republican Senators are planning to do, would be impossible under the program now being followed for the drafting of the pact.

WILSON PREPARED FOR FIGHT

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

PARIS, March 22.—President Wilson is prepared to make a strong fight to compel the Senate to ratify the preliminary peace treaty containing the peace pact, those close to him intimated today. News reports are that certain Senators are seeking to separate the League from the treaty.

AWARD DANZIG TO POLAND

(By United Press.)

PARIS, March 22.—The Supreme War Council today definitely decided to award Danzig to Poland with a corridor running from the Polish district to the Baltic, it was learned from authoritative sources.

BOYS INVITE TROUBLE STARTING CAMP FIRES

Residents of the outlying districts of Clearfield are much alarmed over the trouble which confronts them thru the lawless action of Clearfield boys in starting fires in the woods and along the roads. This week several Clearfield boys have started fires in the woods near the McPherson farm on Monticary creek and it is feared that unless the practice is stopped a serious forest fire with resultant loss to time and property will be the result. Parents should remind their boys that should these fires spread into the woods a criminal action may be the result. Pennsylvania has recently taken up the project of fire protecting and is dealing harshly with those who are careless with fire in the woods.

BURLESON DISMISSES EXECUTIVE HEADS OF THE POSTAL TELEGRAPH

(By United Press.)

WASHINGTON, March 22.—Postmaster General Burleson today removed Clarence H. Mackay, president, W. W. Cook, general consul, W. S. Deegan, secretary, and the board of directors of the Mackay Company operating the Postal Telegraphs and Telegraph system. He appointed A. F. Adams as president to succeed the management.

HOW TO HAVE YOUR ANTI-AMERICAN DISCHARGE PUT ON PERMANENT RECORD UPRISINGS IN THE FAR EAST

A great many inquiries regarding the recording of discharges have been made at our office. Our policy is not to charge any fees for the recording of said discharges but the Auditor General's department advises us that there is a State tax of fifty cents on each discharge recorded and we are compelled to collect this amount for the use of the state, therefore anyone wishing their discharge recorded will have the same done free of charge excepting the fifty cents which must be paid for the use of the state.

It is not necessary to appear in person to have discharges recorded but the same may be mailed to Ed. B. Chase, Clearfield, Pa., enclosing the fifty cents, payable to the state, and postage for return of said discharges, writing return address plainly.

There is a great deal of labor and work involved with recording these discharges, as it is necessary to place on record the entire language of the discharge, and considering the fact that we have a great many discharged soldiers and sailors whose discharges are being placed in this office for recording. It takes considerable time to complete this work, we having enough discharges left for recording now to keep the entire office force busy for several days. If you do not receive your discharge within a couple of weeks after it is left for recording, you need not feel alarmed as it is absolutely necessary to take these discharges up in the order in which they arrive at our office and taken in connection with our other office work, we are possibly a couple weeks behind in recording and will be as long as these discharges are being sent to us to be placed on record.

I might personally say that I feel that the state tax is an imposition but the law requires us to make this collection on behalf of the state.

I would also call the attention to the ruling of the department at Washington to the fact that you do not need to send your discharge into the department in order to get your back pay. The department having ruled that if you will send a certified copy of the same it will be all that is required and would offer the suggestion that those who are entitled to back pay instead of sending their discharges may make a copy of the same and send the certified copy to the proper department at Washington and there will be no danger of losing your discharge.

I also wish to say to the men who have been in the service that we invite you to send your discharge in and have it recorded as it is a pleasure for us in this way to show our gratitude to the soldiers and sailors of Clearfield county who have so nobly performed their duty in the time of their country's crisis.

Respectfully yours,
ED. B. CHASE,

RAINBOW DIVISION TO EMBARK FROM FRANCE

Washington, March 22.—Firm belief of a substantial element in Japan that the United States has territorial designs in Asia precipitated anti-American demonstrations in the far East, diplomatic quarters reported today. The American Chinese policy and the recent American diplomatic predominance in the Siberian intervention, it is learned, are the points submitted by the Japanese anti-American element as proof of this country's Asiatic ambitions. Japanese diplomats concurred with the American officials in the opinion that the Siberian differences between the two countries must be blamed in a great measure on the Bolshevik uprisings.

DR. WILKINS WILL GET EARLY TRIAL

By United Press

Mineola, March 25.—The trial of Dr. W. K. Wilkins, charged with wife murder, will probably begin within six weeks, it was learned today. Wilkins is anxious for an early hearing. He is accused of beating his wife to death with a club at his Long Beach home, February 27, and then fabricating a story that burglars had done the crime. Wilkins, who is 64 years old, called in reporters and issued a statement denying there was "another woman" in the case as a possible motive. He said that the insinuation that an actress had something to do with it was a "criminal lie."

STATE HIGHWAY OFFICIALS HERE

Engineer Bennett, who is State Highway Superintendent for Clearfield county, with headquarters at DuBois, accompanied by J. Blake Carlson from the DuBois office, were in Clearfield yesterday in an attempt to get property owners along the line of the proposed state road improvement between Clearfield and Curwensville to sign the necessary release of damages. This is necessary before bid will be asked for same.

AMERICA'S IMMORTALS

FREDERICK O. GASKINS,
Corporal, Company I, 118th
Infantry.

The Distinguished Service Cross was awarded to Corp. Gaskins in recognition of distinguished gallantry resulting in his death in action near La Haie Meneresse, France, October 16, 1918. When the advance of his company was held up by two machine gun nests, Corp. Gaskins led his squad, entirely on his own initiative, in the face of intense machine gun fire, against an enemy post on the right flank. Followed by his men, he rushed the position, taking it and killing two of the gun crew. He then rushed a second post alone, with his rifle, killing one of the crew. He was himself killed before he could reach the post. Corp. Gaskins' home was in Chesterfield, S. C.

Walter Wade and Clifford Hodgins, two representative citizens of Roanoke, Va., are in Clearfield at present the guests of their friends Walter J. Jamper, Jesse James Lee and Jack Wise, former Roanoke residents, and Fred B. Leary.

The visitors are both genial gentlemen and express themselves as being highly pleased with Clearfield and the Clearfield people they have met. Mr. Hodgins has just been mustered out of Uncle Sam's service and is taking a few days off before resuming his business in Roanoke. Mr. Wade is a passenger conductor and runs between Hagerstown and Roanoke.

Roanoke has been "dry" for a year now and the visitors were greatly amused at the fear of the awful drought that is scheduled to hit the country on Jan. 15th next, and advise their bibulous friends to have recourse to a real old Simon-pure "made in Virginia" invention. They call it "The Setting Hen" and in a conversation last evening concerning the all-absorbing topic Wade volunteered the following confidential information, with leave to print:

"There's nothing to worry about," said he, as he stirred his highball at the Riverside, "because you needn't be 'dry' unless you want to be. We've got used to this fool Prohibition business down our way. I saw printed a list of substitutes for bottled exhilaration the other day, but they left out The Setting Hen. We've found it pretty good, much simpler and less expensive than the stuff that pays an excise tax. How's it made? Well, 'Take a tin kettle, drop in a handful of corn meal, oatmeal or rye meal, put in a lump of yeast and a little sugar, fill the kettle with hot water, let it simmer for a couple of hours, then stand it off to ferment for a day or two, and there you are. Three drinks of it will last you all of one day and most of the next. Total expense about 10 cents a quart. If you like an extra 'kick' put the 'Hen' through a simple distilling process and you'll have nothing to complain of and need not fear a revenue raider."

The all absorbing topic of who is going to be our next postmaster will no doubt remain a Postoffice Department secret until the favored applicant is named and the trick is turned. A Washington representative of The Progress has been endeavoring to get some information on the ratings made on the basis of the questionnaires which the several applicants filled out and sent to the Civil Service Commission and his advice to us is that the Civil Service Commission declines to give these ratings to the general public. He advises further that all the applications, together with the ratings made thereon, will be referred to the Post Office Department, whereupon inspectors will be assigned to investigate the qualifications, etc. (wonder what etc. means) of the applicants. These inspectors will in turn report their findings to the Postmaster General who is the final court. (It's a long, long trail.)

The business men of Clearfield, who are vitally interested in the selection of a new postmaster, feel that there is ample material from which the Department can select a good official if they so desire. The general feeling is that the appointment of an able man will please regardless of who he is or what his party affiliations. Clearfield needs an efficient postman and it is a wonderful opportunity for a fortunate applicant to win the favor of the people by giving good service.

UNFAIR CRITICISM DESPICABLE METHOD
THE GOOD CITIZENS WILL SUPPORT HIM

Another case of the wish being father to the thought is brot to the attention of the people of the county through the unwarranted condemnation of Mr. Westcott's appointment of Edgar Westcott in the editorial columns of the Clearfield county "Progress". It is not to be denied that the appointment of Mr. Westcott was not popular with everyone and neither can it be denied that no Clearfield man could have been so easily misled everybody in the county, particularly the editor of the "Progress" who has no good word to say about anybody except those who approach the altar of greatness through his selection and approval. His criticism of the appointment is purely political, his statement that Clearfield county is no longer believe in Mr. Sallenger is the outgrowth of his political grudge, and being political, it can in no way affect the citizens who really has the subject of good roads at heart. We like to hear a man say that he is for good roads and will work to that end but we look with suspicion at the statement that "we are for good roads—but.... etc."

In the appointment there is nothing to indicate that Mr. Westcott will do other than defend and secure one hundred per cent efficiency from Mr. Westcott and any other of his appointees. Mr. Westcott reads his limitations and appreciates the big job that is before him. He is not looking for praise or commendation now but prefers to do his work well as it is laid out for him and get what credit is due him at the end of his term. That is the sane view. We all know the history of the new broom which sweeps clean under the stimulus of praise and flattery. Many times they wear out all the sooner. So far as the Highway Department is concerned Mr. Westcott has only to carry out the plans and work laid out for him. So far as the people of the county are concerned, he has a right to expect the citizen in carrying out these plans. Condemnation before trial is a despicable political method of showing a spike into the wheels of progress.

One paragraph is significant in the editorial. We beg your indulgence to reprint it as follows:
"If Mr. Westcott proves a success he will disappoint over ninety per cent of the people who know him best." Can it be that the editor of the "Progress" will be disappointed if good roads are a success under Mr. Westcott? It is evident that he prefers had roads to political disappointment. Mr. Westcott probably knows that this paper did not approve of his appointment but with our disapproval we do not carry condemnation. He has our assurance that he will not be prematurely criticized or embarrassed by partisan or factional politics from our office. Good roads is too big an issue to be made the football of politics. The Republican will do well to co-operate without its "ifs, ands and buts."

WORSE CHEAT THAN A HORSE TRADE
"Hey, fellows! Come here a minute. Yes, you old fellows too. Isn't it nice to lie down on Saturday night with the knowledge that the alarm clock need not be set for a shift the next day? Think of that luxurious feeling when next morning the sun peeps thru the shades and by its gentle touch dispels the shadow of the sleep god, Morpheus. This somewhere between the hours of seven and nine according to your habit. It is the one morning of the week when you breakfast with the children and enjoy their sweet companionship; the only morning when you and your good wife can take all the time you need to prepare the morning meal. After breakfast the children are gotten ready for Sunday School or church service as the case may be. You get out your best "bib and tucker" and walk leisurely to the church of your choice where you worship the same God as the millionaire, with perhaps a better chance for salvation. On your return to the home you hear the cheery voices of the family. The kiddoes hear the beautiful story of the Shepherd, His love for them, and bring home concrete examples of His charity. And then dinner; always something extra for dinner on Sunday. You pretend you do not pay any attention to this, but you do, you damned old hypocrite. After dinner you rest; the rest that your body requires and which the Son of God in His wisdom and goodness has set apart in the ten commandments. You are free to walk out and breathe the fresh air, to employ your hands or your mind in healthful and beneficial recreation. You have the satisfaction of knowing that your children are doing the same as you. At the end of the day you see all refreshed in spirit, body and mind, eager to tackle the problems of the next week, thankful for the Seventh Day of which the heathens are ignorant, looking forward to the following Sabbath when once more you may enjoy the day of rest."

The above, gentlemen, is what the Philadelphia Orchestra and the moving picture millionaires would have us swap for the privilege of going to a movie on Sunday and in order that a handful of people might go to a theatre in Philadelphia to hear their orchestra. Are we going to be hoodwinked or flimflamed like this? Not if we can help it.

DID HE HAVE GASTRITIS OR CONSUMPTION?

Doctors didn't know. Anyway, Mr. Baker is well now. Feels like he did at sixteen.

"One year ago in September I was taken down; I don't know exactly what the doctors didn't know exactly what was the matter. Some said I had catarrhal gastritis, some said consumption, and others cancer. Anyway, I was given up to die. A friend persuaded me to try Milks Emulsion. In 2 or 3 weeks, the soreness went out of my lungs, the aching pains vanished from between my shoulders, and I began to eat and sleep, and work a little. All the miserable loneliness, feeling began to leave loose, and that heavy weight in the left side of my stomach, that hung like a huge iron ball, disappeared. "By the time I had taken four bottles, I could eat anything, sleep like an infant, and the old time vim and nerve had come back. I felt like I did when I was sixteen."—Lyman Baker, Star Route, Berryville, Ark. The old rule is, get the stomach and bowels working right, and all ailments start to leave. Strength comes back, flesh is regained, and the whole system begins to fight disease. The Emulsion is guaranteed, so it is nothing to try. Milks Emulsion is a pleasant, nutritive food and a corrective medicine. It restores healthy, natural blood action, doing away with the need of pills and physics. It promotes appetite and quickens the digestive organs in shape to assimilate food. It is a builder of flesh and strength. Milks Emulsion is strongly recommended to run-down nervous people, and it has produced amazing results in many cases of tuberculosis of the lungs. Chronic stomach trouble and constipation are promptly relieved—usually in one day. It works like magic on coughs and colds. This is the only solid emulsion made, and so palatable that it is eaten with a spoon like ice cream. A tried and true medicine for weak, sickly children. No matter how severe your case, you are urged to try Milks Emulsion under this guarantee: Take six bottles home with you, and if not satisfied with the results, your money will be promptly refunded. Price 60c and $1.20 per bottle. The Milks Emulsion Co., Terre Haute, Ind. Sold and guaranteed by Searns Drug Store.

LETTER FROM WILLIAM R. CAMPBELL

A letter from William Campbell to his father, Andrew Campbell of Morrisdale, conveys the interesting and welcome information that he has arrived from France and is anxiously awaiting his final discharge so he can come home. He is located at Camp Merritt but expects to be transferred to Camp Dix as soon as they get thru with the quarantine regulations. He is sticking close to camp although passes to New York are easily procurable. He says that he does not want any pass until they hand him that pass to good old Clearfield county.

Pimples are Impurities Seeking an Outlet Through Skin Pores
Pimples, sores and boils usually result from toxins, poisons and impurities which are generated in the bowels and then absorbed into the blood thru the very ducts which should absorb only nourishment to sustain the body. It is the function of the kidneys to filter impurities from the blood and cast them out in the form of urine, but in many instances the bowels create more toxins and impurities than the kidneys can eliminate, then the blood uses the skin pores as the next best means of getting rid of these impurities which often break out all over the skin in the form of pimples. The surest way to clear the skin of these eruptions, says a noted authority, is to get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of hot water each morning before breakfast for one week. This will prevent the formation of toxins in the bowels. It also stimulates the kidneys to normal action, thus causing them to filter the blood of impurities and clearing the skin of pimples. Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent drink which usually makes pimples disappear, cleanses the blood and is excellent for the kidneys as well.

THE COMFORTS of the AMERICAN HOME

It is a well-known fact that, home for home, the American household has more comforts and conveniences than that of any other nation.

In foreign lands the modernized dwelling is found only in the better sections of the larger cities.

It is largely due to advertising. And a big share of the credit belongs to newspaper advertising.

Stop and think how many of the foods you eat, the things you wear and other articles entering into your everyday life, you first heard of through newspaper advertisements.

You will then realize what a part they do play, or should play, in your daily life.

Read the advertisements in the newspapers regularly and thoroughly, if you are not already doing so. They mean more to you than you can tell.

In America, even in remote rural districts, you find the piano, the vacuum cleaner, washing machines, up-to-date heating systems, telephones and numberless electrical appliances.

There is a well-kept look about residence, store or outbuildings with an atmosphere of prosperity and content.

SPROUL SAYS PENNSYLVANIA NEARS END OF THE MUD AGE

By WM. C. SPROUL (Governor of Pennsylvania.)
Last fall I covered many miles of road in northern Cambria County in an automobile. The trip was a delightful one. The dirt roads were in splendid condition. But as we whirled along the highway I thought of conditions when winter came; and my mind glimpsed the sodden ribbon of mud that must come with the rain and snow—a mud ribbon that would choke the trade, prevent neighborly intercourse and cause tremendous monetary loss. I seemed to see injured automobiles; teams of tired horses steaming from the effort to get to market loads of produce woefully small because of road conditions. And as the Cambria County people with me in the automobile pointed out the glories of the countryside I could not help but wonder how long it would be before Pennsylvania awoke to the fact that its poor roads are a brake on the wheels of progress. A short while afterward came the November election; and the people of Pennsylvania gave a majority of 262,000 votes to the proposition to bond the Commonwealth for $50,000,000 for road purposes. I knew then that we in Pennsylvania were nearing the end of the Mud Age. Since that time we have completed our plans for Pennsylvania's system of primary highways—planned to give the state a network of north-south and east-west thoroughfares which will connect every county and, meeting the highways of other commonwealths at our boundaries, place Pennsylvania in communication with a multitude of markets and sources of supply. In the work of permanentizing Pennsylvania's highways we are being joined by a large number of counties. We have been promised many millions of dollars to be used in conjunction with our funds on state-aid highways, while the majority of counties in the state are also preparing to spend their own money on the construction of necessary laterals or cross roads, connecting our primary highways. The administration is particularly pleased with the willingness of county commissioners to co-operate in highway construction. And we are pleased that the people themselves look at the proposition in such a broadgauge manner and are urging their county authorities not only to spend all available money possible for better roads, but to borrow money for construction.

It seems to me that the theory that we should have the use of our improved roads while paying for them is a proper one. We buy our homes and occupy them while paying for them. We borrow money for the purpose of extending our business. We bond the state to pay for roads the use of which we have while paying the bills. A county bonds itself for road purposes—and the construction of better highways increases property values and lessens production costs. But it is important to remember that borrowing money with which to build roads which will have disappeared or are useless before the borrowed money has been repaid is an economic fallacy. When we buy a home we expect—we know!—that the house with proper care will be practically as good as ever when we have finished paying for it. Under the construction method planned by the Commonwealth the life of the roads will be much longer than the life of the bonds issued to pay the bills. It is important that construction by counties be of the same durable nature. Taxpayers are never averse to spending money when they know that the return is one hundred cents for every dollar expended. During the next four years the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania will spend approximately $100,000,000 for better roads. And we are going to have $100,000,000 worth of roads. Not only that, we are going to continue to have that $100,000,000 worth of roads for years after we have paid the bills—which is, after all, the most important thing to remember. Pennsylvania must not stop with that initial expenditure. It must continue to construct permanent highways until every hamlet and every farm is either on a improved highway or within a very short distance of one. There are 10,235 miles of road in the State's highway system—the system of roads controlled by the Commonwealth. There are approximately 90,000 miles of roads of all sorts in Pennsylvania.

The State is bearing the entire cost of constructing the primary system. It asks that each county expend on secondary routes the money that it would have spent on primary routes had not the State shouldered the burden. The State of Pennsylvania has innumerable assets. And it is a liability which we have seen to from the state had made it pleased that Cambria county's disposition to co-operate with the work done by the Commonwealth will be proportionate to that completed by the Commonwealth.

Two Strong Columbus Features

AT the rear end of the Columbus wagon box you will find two improvements that will mean much to you in the coming years while you use the wagon. There is the international folding end gate (patent applied for). Split end-gates are now done every way. You will see that it is easy to remove or replace and will stay in position; that it is very strong, made from heavy cross sills to prevent splitting, and by a spring steel bar. Then there is the center link box rod. This rod connects in the center and has a threaded handle nut on each side of the box. When uncoupled the rod always remains fast to the box. The new link end rod means no more lost or bent rods, and no more stripped threads. You can tighten the rod from either side. Come in and see the handiest arrangement you ever saw.

SILKEN floating strands are quite the thing. Frock without a sash is like a julep without mint.

DAME FASHION IS ENMESHED

By Margaret Rhoe (Written for The United Press)

A silken sash with dainty haste
Belinda knotted round her waist
And as she tied it in a bow
She caught my heart right in you know.
Content I'd bide
At her sweet side
Could I but be the beau she tied.

NEW YORK, March 21.—Of course

it's humiliating and prosaic to be tied
to a pair of apron strings, but what
better fate could a mere man ask than
to be attached to the silken floating
strands of the gorgeous ribbon sashes
fetching females are now all wrapped
up in.

Spring days is like a julep without
mint. After June Thirtieth, of course,

we'll find that's just a mere detail, but
at present it's the details that count.
A sash is just that right piquant
detail that breaks the plain dark length
of line with a splash of color and adds
savor and flavor to a frock. Really,
a waist without a sash is not a waist
of the times, but a waste of time.

Wonderful in coloring and design
are the wide ribbons offered to sash
femininity. They are irresistible and it is no wonder Dame Fashion is all
enmeshed in their toils.

The lustre of metallic threads plays
a bright part in the warp and woof of
them and the gay Bayadere stripes of
the old Roman sashes turn most any
dark gown into a veritable Roman
holiday. Usually on dark toned satin or taffeta dresses, navy, black or
taupe, the gay hues sashes tie up to
the greatest advantage but a rose
pink taffeta evening gown, worn in
"Up in Mabel's Room" is one of the
most effective sash dresses of the sea-
son. The regulation draped pink
taffeta skirt is tight at the feet and
puffed out over the hips. The bodice,
which is too slight for honorable
mention, is joined to the skirt by the wide crush of a black background, the
ribbon strewn with red and yellow
roses shot with silver. This ribbon
sash is knotted in the back and out
long end falls and trails on the floor
in the form of a train.

sash of your childhood days, it is
much classier than the newest imitat-
ing ribbons. A lucky debutante was
the envied of all beholders the other
day, sporting a charming old sash of
her mother's youth. It was of yellow
satin, chenille fringed, and embroidered
on each end with rosebuds and
forget-me-nots in chenille. She wore
it with a smoke grey Georgette dress.
Chenille fringe for the sash ends is

until it "passes off." It only comes back.
Find the cause and stop it. Diseased
conditions of kidneys are usually indicated by stiff lame backs and other
wrenching pains, which are nature's
signals for help!
Here's the remedy. When you feel
the first twinges of pain or experience any of these symptoms, get busy
MEDAL Brand Oil Capsules, imported fresh every month from the
laboratories in Harlem, Holland.
Pleasant and easy to take, they instantly
break up the poisonous germs clogging
your system and bring quick relief.
For over two hundred years they have been helping the sick. Why not try them? Sold everywhere by respected druggists in sealed packages.
Three sizes. Money back if they do
not help you. Ask for "GOLD MEDAL" and be sure the name
"GOLD MEDAL" is on the box.

SCHOOL NOTES

SCHOOL NOTES

Thursday evening the High school
Glee club and orchestra held a party
at the High school instead of the regular rehearsal. The first on the program was a light lunch served by
the boys. This was followed by
dancing and at an early hour the
members departed voting it the best
rehearsal for some time.

Mr. Andes gave out several checks
to the pupils in High School who won
prizes with war gardens last summer.

The Junior class has selected the
cast for their play "Bonnie Kate."
The play is being directed by Miss
Herbert, the history teacher.

Rumors are circulated that the girls
of the Junior class will reorganize
their basketball team. If this is
true there is little hope for the girls'
team of the Y. M. C. A. Last year
in the interclass league the Juniors
"cleaned up" on the team now representing the Y. Probably with a little
practice they could come back and do
it again and also take the champion-
ship which the Y. M. C. A. girls
claim.

Marble season is here. The result
is that Mr. Andes has a few callers
at the office explaining that they were
sent there because of playing marbles
on the floor. They make such a nice
noise.

The Glee Club will now rehearse
on Friday after school in addition to Thursday evening. They are working on a cantata which will require a
good deal of practice in order to give
it by commencement time.

Musterole Loops Up Those
Stiff Joints—Kicks Out Pain
You'll know why thousands use Musterole once you experience the glad relief it gives.

Get a jar at once from the neural-
gic, rheumatic, and muscular pains
made with the oil of mustard. Musterole is a natural product and does not burn. Brings ease and comfort while the pain is being rubbed out.
Musterole is recommended by many doctors and nurses. Millions of jars are used annually for bronchitis, croup, and croup, asthma, neuritis, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the
back or joints, sprains, sore muscles,
bruises, chilblains, frost-bitten feet, colds of
the chest. It often prevents pneumonia.

ELIMINATION BOWLING TOURNAMENT

A cup will be given to the man who
finishes out ahead.

Rule 1. The contest shall consist
of three games to be rolled when
scheduled.

Rule 2. When a man is eliminated
he shall not roll any more games.

Rule 3. The games shall be rolled
start.

Rule 4. The games are for members in good standing only.

Rule 5. The foul line shall be ob-
served.

Rule 6. There shall be an official
scorer appointed for each match.
start the match.

- 1—Wallace, R. Roseberry
- 2—Ennis, H. Roseberry
- 3—Mohney, P. Roseberry
- 4—Leffler, Mitchell
- 5—Kreher, Swales
- 6—Wrigley, Stage
- 7—Woods, Jordan
- 8—Yeane, Pearce

particularly smart and long chenille
tassels are also effective.

Appropos of getting out your old
sashes you'd better shake the lavender
out of your old lace collars at the
same rummaging.

The exquisite ivory tint of a col-
webby real old lace collar is the last
word in perfection to top off the black
satin draped gown that is the necessity of Everywoman's Spring wardrobe.

It makes no difference what shape or
kind your collar is, just so it is hand-
made of course, and a bit yellowed
with age.
A clever dressmaker who wishes to
get the best effect out of some lovely
old lace collars which thread their
most fascinating designs in the rather
stilted form of a deep sailor collar has
hit upon the happy idea of turning
the collars completely around and letting the erstwhile deep rear sailor effect drop down in front, in a quaint pish manner. The result is most artistic and suggests that if we are
going to turn backwards for our fashions we may as well turn some of
them forwards, to even things up a bit.

Lemons Whiten and Beautify the Skin! Make Cheap Lotion

The juice of two fresh lemons strained
into a bottle containing three
ounces of orchard white makes a
whole quart of the most remarkable lemon skin beautifier at
small jar of the ordinary cold cream.
Care should be taken to strain the
lemon juice through a fine cloth so no
lemon pulp gets in, then this lotion
will keep fresh for months. Every
woman knows that lemon juice is used
to bleach and remove such blemishes
as freckles, sallowness and tan and is
the ideal skin softener, smoothen-
er and beautifier.

Just try it! Make up a quart
pint of this sweetly fragrant lemon
lotion and massage it daily into the face, neck, arms and hands. It should
naturally help to whiten, soften
roses and bring out the hidden
freshness and beauty of any skin. It is wonderful for rough, red hands.
Your druggist will sell three ounces
of orchard white at little cost, and
any grocer will supply the lemons.

Turquoises are thus called because
the first specimens came to Europe
by way of Turkey.

ISRAEL WARNED AGAINST COM- PROMISE

(May be used with Temperance Applications.)

LESSON TEXT—Joshua 23:1-14.
GOLDEN TEXT—Evil companionships
corrupt good morals.—1 Corinthians 15:33.
ADDITIONAL MATERIAL—Numbers
23:20; Joshua 9:3-7; Judges 2:1-5; 2:14;
Colossians 3:1.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Loving and obeying
God.—Joshua 24:14-25.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Standing up for the
right.
company.

Joshua, knowing that his life was
drawing to a close, summoned the
leaders of Israel to appear before him.
He knew the tendencies which the nation was developing and the peril
which faced it as his leadership was
coming to an end. His jealousy for God and for the people for whom he
was to assemble them and point out
the great dangers which confronted
them.

I. A Review of What God Had Done (23:1-4).

1. God had fought Israel's battles
(v. 3). He gave them victory over the
strong nations which inhabited Canaan.
Striking evidences of this are the capture of Jericho and victory at Gibeon when the sun stood still at
been secured quickly, which indicates
that God had interposed in their behalf.

2. God by the hand of Joshua had
apportioned the land among the tribes
(v. 4) for an inheritance. In chapter
24 Joshua rehearses the wonderful
things God had done for the nation
extending from Abraham down
through the ages.

II. Points Out the Promises as Yet Unfulfilled (23:5-10).

1. "He shall expel them before you"
(v. 5). The actual possession which God had given was the pledge that he
would give them full possession. God's promise was the guarantee of this. In view of God's faithful performance
of all his promises there should be
no room for doubt.

2. "One man of you shall chase a thousand" (v. 10). The reason of this
was because the Lord God would fight
for them. To have the Lord fight for
us is to have the assurance of victory
regardless of how few or how many.
3. The condition upon which these
promises would be realized. (1) "Be very courageous" (v. 6). At that time
like this it required courage to look to
God for all the nation's needs. (2)
"Keep, and do all that is written in the law of Moses" (v. 6). Fidelity to God's law was essential. Turning
aside in any particular would forfeit
their claims upon him. (3) "Keep
aloof from the Canaanites" (v. 7).
This separation was to obtain with
reference to (a) marriage among them
(b) idolatrous customs. (4) Closely
wholly unto God (v. 8).

III. Solemn Warnings Issued (23: 11-16).

1. Take good heed that you love God
sincerely (v. 11). Love to God is the
sum total of duty toward him.
2. Refrain from intermarriage among
the Canaanites (v. 12). For God's people to intermarry among the heathen
is to set in motion influences which
would issue in confusion and disaster.
3. God will make the heathen
snarers, traps and scourges instead of giving victory over them (v. 13).

4. Evil things will come upon them
just as good things had been done for
them even to their destruction (v. 15).

5. The wrath of God kindled against them (v. 16).

Peace and Righteousness.

Righteousness means victory with
the help of the Spirit of God over ourselves, over our inclinations, our pas-
sions, our tempers, our whole sinful nature. There is no peace without victory in the spiritual life, and I am
inclined to think that holds good between men and nations. There is no
peace until righteousness is done. The Prophet said: "They have healed also
the hurt of my people slightly, saying
Peace, Peace, when there is no peace."
There must be righteousness toward
God and our fellowmen if there is to
be peace and good will on earth.

If We Suffer.

"If we suffer, we shall also reign
with him," says St. Paul. What a
crown is that for this, O sufferer!
"Thy pains and sickness are all cured;
thy body shall no more burden thee
with weakness and weariness; thy ach-
ing head and heart, thy hunger and
gone. Oh, what a mighty change is
this which shines as the brightness of the firmament!"—Barter.

God's Will.

The kingdom of heaven is not come
even when God's will is our law. It is come when God's will is our will.
When God's will is our law, we are
but a kind of noble slaves. When his
will is our will, we are free children.
—George MacDonald.

Washington, March 22—An aston-
ishingly large number of soldiers
have contracted tuberculosis. Nearly 40 per cent. of the disability claims
filed with the War Risk Insurance
bureau show that tuberculosis has
undermined the soldiers' health.

The question of what to do with
these men is the biggest problem facing the Federal Board for Vocational Training at the present time.

The board has found that it is best
to send these men to small towns or
into the country where they may obtain employment under more favor-
able conditions than they would get
in the city.

IN OLDEN DAYS THE BARBERS WERE NOT TONSorial ARTISTS

law allowing moving picture shows to
open on Sunday in Pennsylvania, is
no doubt responsible for the following concerning ancient Sunday law
observances printed in the Philadelphia Public Ledger yesterday:

In New Haven, Conn., the law for-
bids the out-of-doors band concerts
that are regularly given on Sunday
afternoon.

The fine for merely attending any
concert that is not of sacred music is $4, but the fine, it seems, is never
collected.

The modern historian is inclined to
scoff at the idea that the notorious
"blue laws" of Connecticut ever had
tangible substance, but it is certain
that in Connecticut, as in all the rest
of the colonies, the observance of the Sabbath was straight-laced and
hedged about with interdictions.

In 1705, when Pennsylvania's blue
law was still young, men were fined
twenty shillings for laboring on Sun-
day and half that sum for drinking
in a tavern. It seems curious that
the laborers were fined twice as much
as the loafers and tipplers.

Penn had ordained that on "every
first day of the week, called the Lord's Day, people shall abstain from
their common, daily labor that they
may the better dispose themselves to
worship God according to their un-
derstandings" and in accordance with
this edict the grand jury in 1688 indicted the master of a ship lying in
the Delaware for profaning the silence of the Sabbath by firing off a
gun.

In 1703 the like fate befell four bar-
bers who committed the heinous offense of "trimming people on first
days of the week, commonly called Sunday."

It was then forbidden to use a yoke
of oxen with a wain on the hold day,
and firing guns and racing horses
were, of course, under the ban.

Sunday legislation was stiffened after Penn's return to the colony in 1702, but the lawmakers were not
unmindful of the perplexing domestic
problems of those who had no ice to
keep meat fresh in the summer
months, and therefore the statutes
were careful to exempt from their
sweeping prohibitions "the dressing
of victuals in families, cookshops or
retailing houses, or watermen landing their passengers on the first day
of the week," or butchers killing and
selling meat, or fishermen bringing in their catches during June, July and August.

But in 1741 it was still a grievance
among the Sabbatarians that barbers
were found who defied the law by
"trimming" people on Sunday.

When Gifford Daily in 1780 rents
of John Pemberton, a friend, the
premises which Daily intends to use
as a tavern, Daily "covenants and
agrees and promises" * * * that the
house on the first day of the week
shall always be kept closed from public use, that so regard and reverence
may be manifested for retirement and
the worship of God.

After several years, nevertheless,
the inn became private property again,
and the owner expressed his satisfaction in the change. This was the
building known as the Old London
Coffee House. It stood at Front and High (now Market) streets, and in its
shelter on the sidewalks was a market
for negro slaves.

LIFT OFF CORNS!

Doesn't hurt at all and costs only a few cents

Magis! Just drop a little Frezzone on that touchy corn, instantly it stops aching, then you lift the corn off with the fingers. Truly! No humbug! Try Frezzone! Your druggist sells a tiny bottle for a few cents, sufficient to rid your feet of every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and calluses, without one particle of pain, soreness or irritation. Frezzone is the discovery of a noted Cincinnati genius.

ANTIQUITY OF DECORATIVE ART

Crude but Effective Processes Employed by the Egyptians and Greeks of Pliny's Day—Noah Prudently Waterproofed the Ark.

Whether paint was invented in answer to a need for a preservative or to meet a desire for beauty is a question fully as knotty as the ancient one about the relative time of arrival of the chicken or the egg. It was invented, though, and it serves both purposes equally; so whether it is an offspring of mother necessity or an adopted son of beauty remains forever a disputed question.

The first men, cowering under the fierce and glaring suns of the biblical countries, constructed rude huts of wood to shelter them. The perishable nature of these structures caused rapid decay, and it is probable that the occupants, seeking some artificial means of preservation, hit upon the pigments of the earth in their search. It is perhaps natural to suppose that it was the instinct of preservation that led men to the search, although the glories of the sunsets and the beauties of the rainbow may have created a desire to imitate those wonders in their own dwellings.

The earliest record of the application of a preservative to a wooden structure dates from the ark, which was, according to the Bible, "pitched within and without." The pitch was a triumph of preservation whatever it lacked as a thing of beauty.

Decoration applied to buildings first comes to light with ancient Babylon, whose walls were covered with representations of hunting scenes and of combat. These were done in red and the method followed was to paint the scene on the bricks at the time of manufacture, assuring permanence by baking. Strictly speaking, this was not painting so much as it was the earliest manifestation of our own familiar kalosmizing.

The first Hebrew to mention painting is Moses. In the thirty-third chapter of the book of Numbers he instructs the Israelites, "When ye have passed over the Jordan into the land of Canaan, then shall ye drive out all the inhabitants of the land from before you and destroy all their pictures."

At later periods the Jews adopted many customs of the peoples who successively obtained power over them and in the apocryphal book of the Maccabees is found this allusion to the art of decorating, "For as the master builder of a new house must care for the whole building, but he that undertaketh to set it out and paint it, must seek out things for the adorning thereof."

Although Homer gives credit to a Greek for the discovery of paint, the allusions to it in the books of Moses, the painted mummy cases of the Egyptians and the decorated walls of Babylon and Thebes fix its origin at a period long antecedent to the Grecian era. The walls of Thebes were painted 1,900 years before the coming of Christ and 998 years before "Omer smote his bloomin' lyre."

The Greeks recognized the value of paint as a preservative and made use of something akin to it on their ships. Pliny writes of the mode of hulling war and painting ships with it, after which, he continues, "neither the sea, nor the wind, nor the sun can destroy the wood thus protected."

The Romans, being essentially a warlike people, never brought the decoration of buildings to the high plane it had reached with the Greeks. For all that the ruins of Pompeii show many structures whose mural decorations are in fair shape today. The colors used were glaring. A black background was the usual one and the combinations worked thereon red, yellow and blue.

In the early Christian era the use of mosaics for churches somewhat supplanted mural painting. Still, during the reign of Justinian the Church of Saint Sophia was built at Constantinople and its walls were adorned with paintings.

In modern times the uses of paint have come to be as numerous as its myriad shades and tints. Paint is unique in that its name has no synonym and for it there is no substitute material. Bread is the staff of life, but paint is the life of the staff. No one thinks of the exterior of a wooden building now except in terms of paint coated. Interiors, too, from painted walls and stained furniture down to the lowliest kitchen utensil, all receive their protective covering. Steel, so often associated with cement re-enforcing, is painted before it goes to give solidity to the manufactured stone. The huge girders of the skyscrapers are daubed an ugly but efficient red underneath the surface coat of black. Perhaps the best example of the value of paint on steel is found in the venerable Brooklyn bridge, on which a gang of painters is kept going continually. It is scarce possible to think of a single manufactured article which does not meet paint somewhere in the course of its construction. So has paint grown into the very marrow of our lives.

Every day 350 persons arrive in New York to make the city their permanent home.

GOOD ROAD WANTED AT GRAMPIAN

Editor Progress, Clearfield, Pa.
Grampian, March 22

Please allow me space in your widely read paper to call the attention of auto drivers to the newest and most up-to-date improvement along Route 59 between DuBois and Curwensville. This improvement is located in sight of Main street Grampian and needs but to be seen to be appreciated—nit.

It is in the shape of an automobile garage and public "rest" room, it gets the latter title from the universal condemnation of the people of our city who seem to think the owner, architect, builder and everybody else responsible for it should be arrested.

This magnificent structure belongs to Joe Fleming, chief justice of the Grampian supreme court, telegraph operator, coal operator and dealer in "two handed" buildings and other things ad libitum. The building rambles over the better part of one end of a town lot and is both fearfully and wonderfully made. It is a child of the combined "thought domes" of "Aallaround" Fleming, and Architect and Builder Jess McDonald.

The new garage has free air and running water while all that is lacking is a road to get to it, as the unfeeling citizen owning the property between the architect's dream and the artist has unfortunately erected a spite fence barrier nine feet high and auto drivers to get into the darn thing will have to loop the loop.

WILDFIRE

By ZANE GREY

Author of "The Rainbow Trail," "Riders of the Purple Sage," "The Border Legion," Etc.

Lin Sloane had tracked the untamed red stallion Wildfire from Utah up into Colorado and had captured him, but he was only the nominal owner, for Lucy Postil had won the love of this beautiful animal and had captivated the heart of the "wild-horse rider" as well. Lucy was the pride of her father's heart, having inherited his love of horses and his perfect fearlessness. One day she raced Wildfire against her father's "favorite," and won. On a later day, in another race, Wildfire saved Lucy's life against forest fire.

Like all of Zane Grey's novels, this one is straight, clean and exciting—perhaps, if possible, it is a little more thrilling than any of the others.

WHEN YOU WAKE UP DRINK GLASS OF HOT WATER

Wash the poisons and toxins from system before putting more food into stomach.

Save inside-bathing makes any one look and feel clean, sweet and refreshed.

Wash yourself on the inside before breakfast like you do on the outside. This is vastly important because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing illness, while the bowel pores do.

For every ounce of food and drink taken into the stomach, nearly an ounce of waste material must be carried out of the body. If this waste material is not eliminated day by day it quickly ferments and generates poisons, gases and toxins which are absorbed or sucked into the blood stream, through the lymph ducts, which should suck only nourishment to sustain the body.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate costs but very little at the drug store but is sufficient to make anyone an enthusiast on inside-bathing. Men and women who are accustomed to wake up with a dull, aching head or have "furred tongue, bad taste, nasty breath, yellow complexion, others who have bilious attacks, acid stomach or constipation are assured of pronounced improvement in both health and appearance shortly.

COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

Darkens Beautifully and Restores Its Natural Color and Lustre at Once

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients. A large bottle, at little cost, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" thus avoiding a lot of fuss.

While gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By "darkening" your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a comb or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time, by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and luxuriant and you appear years younger.

CLEARFIELD WINS VICTORY OVER ALTOONA HIGH

Clearfield High school ended their basket ball season with a victory over Altoona High. Score 36 to 29.

The game started with Clearfield in the lead but it was not so big as it should have been as the Altoona boys were excellent passers but were a little shy on the basket.

The outstanding features of the game was the shot made from the middle of the floor by Confer of Clearfield, and the cheering of Clearfield, meaning organized cheering.

Clearfield certainly has had a successful season and although they lost to Altoona, at Altoona, they showed them the fine points of the game here.

Following is the lineup:

Gaulin	F.	Klesius
Weaver	F.	Hoover
Dowler	C.	Crook (Roberts)
Roesner	G.	McNeil (Capt.)
Confer	G.	Sutch

Goals, Clearfield, Gaulin 4, Weaver 6, Dowler 3, Confer 1. Altoona, Klesius 4, Hoover 3, Roberts 1, McNeil 2.

Fouls, Clearfield 8 out of 15. Altoona 9 out of 17.

MRS. HARRY JACOBSON DIES

Mrs. Harry Jacobson, of Cherry street, died at the Clearfield hospital at 4 o'clock this morning after an illness of about two weeks, in the 43d year of her age.

Mrs. Jacobson had been a resident of Clearfield for more than twenty years and possessed a wide circle of admiring friends. She was indeed the loving wife and affectionate mother, whose every thought was of her home and loved ones. Just one short year ago her eldest son died in New York and this blow really broke the fond mother's heart, as she had never been herself since that time.

Her sorrowing family have the heartfelt sympathy of their host of friends in this community in this unexpected and heart crushing bereavement.

Mrs. Jacobson leaves to mourn their great loss her husband Harry Jacobson, one daughter, Miss Helen, a student at Anna Normal, and one son, Edward. She is also survived by one brother and two sisters, viz: M. Harrison, of Roanoke, Va.; Mrs. E. M. Luria, of Lock Haven and Mrs. Louis Shapiro, of Clearfield.

BOLSHEVIKI HAS MEMBERS IN FRENCH ARMY

By United Press
Paris, March 25—Reports were received here today that two French regiments in Odessa had mutinied when they were ordered to attack the Bolsheviki. French troops were said to have sent a delegation to headquarters declaring they were ready to fight for France but not to fight their brothers. Reminded that this was mutiny and the penalty death the soldiers said they recognized this but that their decision could not be altered. No executions were reported.

MRS. SARAH J. BOYER DEAD

Mrs. Sarah J. Boyer, relict of the late Dr. T. J. Boyer, died at the home of her daughter Mrs. S. E. Reutter at 2 o'clock this morning after a long illness of the frailties incident to old age.

Mrs. Boyer was one of Clearfield's oldest citizens and is survived by her daughter, already mentioned and one son Lewis C. Boyer.

The funeral will be held from her late home Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock, Rev. W. W. Hartman, officiating.

Proper obituary later.
